Like Halloween Ghost Stories? Here's Princeton's Own Collection

It's after midnight when he appears, a tall, gaunt shadow against the wall of the hallway. He doesn't stay long, and if you look again, he has probably vanished.

His name is Seeger, "Old Mr. Seeger," and he has a right to haunt the tall old Victorian Gothic at the corner of Harrison and Prospect, because that's where he lived during his life-time.

He was a banker--an unlikely occupation for a ghost---and he worked at Princeton Bank and Trust for some 50 years. His gaunt shadow was first observed by the late Roy Dickinson Welch, professor of music at Princeton University, who shared the house with the shade of Old Mr. Seeger.

But he may have been heard by others. Graduate students living on the top floor of the tall and dignified old house, used to hear an odd buzzing sound from time to time. "Old Mr. Seeger is working at his jig-saw again," they would say.

He had other hobbies, too. He gave piano lessons to Verna and Eleanor Bayles, who now live at 85 Harrison Street, and they remember the beautiful dark furnishings, in the Victorian style. Old Mr. Seeger's wife had died in childbirth shortly after the Civil War, and it was said that he kept her room exactly as it was when she died. Certainly, not much in the old house had ever been dusted...

(On the other hand, if you ask Elizabeth Menzies, who used to live in that same house, she will say that she certainly never saw or heard a ghost.)

Ghosts? In Princeton?

Yes, but not many. Everybody knows, of course, about the Hessian who lives in "The Barracks" on Edgehill (and if you don't, you can read about him in a moment). But are there more?

Two newcomers to Princeton, Mary-Stewart Allen and Laird White, decided to investigate local haunts. They inserted an ad in TOWN TOPICS inviting spirits -- or their corporeal friends --- to show themselves and be chronicled. Nobody answered the ad except newspaper reporters (some from as far away as Philadelphia) eager for a good ghost story.

But Townspeople, the group of local recollectors formed by Rick Endersby, gathered one pre-Hallowe'en afternoon not long ago to talk about Ghosts I Have Known, and Old Mr. Seeger's spirit was definitely present...or so it was said.

On the other hand, one skeptical Townspeople asked, "Are you sure it wasn't a squirrel?"

"Nobody who makes a remark like that would EVER see a ghost," says Mrs. Allen firmly. "She comes from the south, where ghosts are dealt with respectfully. Mrs. White comes from New England, where they receive equal due. They suspect Princeton hasn't quite the "romantic" imagination to perceive a ghost. And yet....

How do you account for the coach-and-four that used to rattle through the old Borough Hall

Further Details of Willow Street Townhouses Made Public, But Decision by Zoning Board Is Postponed Until Thursday

No decision was reached last Thursday after the Borough Zoning Board heard the plans of J. Robert Hillier to build 14 townhouses on Willow Street, but the board will meet in a work session this Thursday, and it is expected that a decision will be reached then.

"Design Interface," a subsidiary of Mr. Hillier's architecture firm, is asking the Zoning Board for six bulk variances: side yard, rear yard, lot area, lot width, coverage and usable open space.

"There won't be any project if strict adherence to the zoning ordinance is required," Mr. Hillier told the board. Houses, he hopes, will be in the $75,000 range. If he is held to the nine houses allowed under the ordinance, the price would zoom to about $100,000: "too far out in this locale," he said.

"Intensive housing," is the phrase Mr. Hillier uses to describe his townhouses. Each of the 14 would be 18'8" wide, with brick forecourt for visitor parking, garage, maintenance easement across all the back yards.

The houses would face Willow Street, a small private street that goes off Moore Street. The present University Cleaners building would be torn down to make room for the houses. The street is in the R-4 zone where multiple housing is allowed.

Hurdle May Be Cleared. "Tentatively," Mr. Hillier informed the board, "the state says there is no problem in going ahead regardless of the sewer moratorium because the moratorium included the University Cleaners."

Homes will generate an estimated 4,800 gallons a day in sewage, compared to the plant's 25,000 a day, when it was in operation at the time of the moratorium. The plant has since been closed, and the building is only a pick-up, drop-off place for customers.

A traffic engineer brought in by Mr. Hillier said there would be less traffic with houses than there is now with the cleaner. The question of controlling parking on a private street, raised by board member Roger McDonough, was not answered, although Fire Chief George Rollings said he would recommend banning overnight parking.

Firetrucks can maneuver on Willow, he told the board, and the kind of sloping brick curb construction planned by Design Interface would allow more turning radius than at present, he said. He and his assistant chief, William Karch, had been satisfied with answers to their questions about fire safety.

The houses will have brick walls between the units, smoke detectors in each unit and a fire detector in each heating room.

Ownership in Doubt. The status of Branch Alley, a nine-foot-wide pot-hole linking Willow and Park, came into the discussion frequently. Richard Sinding, 11 Madison, said he uses Branch Alley all the time and asked somebody to improve it. Mr. Hillier said nobody seemed to know who owned the little "street" or even whether it was public or private. "It is not on our property," he said hastily.

Harry's Brook, normally thought of as the Township's disreputable relative, but obviously resident in the Borough also, was mentioned now and then. It flows underground in the area and has been known to flood basements. No basements in these houses, Mr. Hillier said.

When a neighbor said the houses were "out of character" with the neighborhood, Mr. Hillier replied that they were brick and clapboard, like many neighboring houses. "Copying old houses in a corny way, I wouldn't want to be involved with," he said, "After all, you're wearing a sweater and shirt, not a wig and lace!"

The board will also decide this Thursday whether there is conflict in use between the rear warehouse at 32 Vandeventer -- scheduled for occasional use as a Bryn Mawr Book Sale storage drop – and apartments at the front of the property.

WHERE'S BRANCH? Not exactly as well-known as Nassau, but it's used frequently by people who live in the Madison-Moore area. If 14 townhouses are built along Willow, will their residents use Branch as a short-cut to get to town? It's easier, neighbors say, to use Brench, then Park, then Vendeventer, where there is a traffic light, then to wait out the traffic at Nassau and Moore.

GOALS, POLICIES

At School Booard Meeting. Recommendations by Superintendent Philip E. McPherson for a process by which Princeton's school system can set up goals for itself were briefly discussed by the board Tuesday night. They will be the subject of a public meeting of the Board-Administration Seminar to be held next Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the Valley Road building.

Board member Gail Firestone said, however, that she was "rather disappointed" in Dr. McPherson's report, "both in content and in tone." The board had told the superintendent to be specific on curriculum planning, and he hadn't been, she said. Also, she protested that the tone of his report suggests that a goals study is "unnecessary and undesirable because it's going on all the time."

"If it's going on all the time," she said, "it's obviously not co-ordinated. We may well have one set of goals from the staff, another from the community, and so on. The whole community, students and staff, should be involved.

"I'd like to see criteria for achievement," said board member J.B. Smith, "At what point, for example, does a guy need to read at such-and-such speed?"

Dr. McPherson's response was a mild protest that Dr. Firestone had read sentences from his report out of context, and drawn "incorrect and unfortunate conclusions."

The exchange began to heat up ahd board president Winthrop Pike saiid board members and superintendent were "verging on comments that might be indecorous," and the discussion ended.

Detailed, almost semantic discussions were held on the board's public participation

Ghost Stories

(Thompson Hall)? Mrs. Alice Schannel, who was the Borough's welfare officer, remembers those ghostly steeds. She recalls, too, that she would hear steps on the stair — when there was no one on the stair.

Local citizens who sat through Council meetings in the waning days of Thompson Hall's earthly existence might account for the rattling coach-and-four by wind shivering the old panes of glass in the leaking windows.

A Loser? At the corner of Harrison and Nassau in the building once called Queen's Court and now called the Bowers Building, because that's where Lewis C. Bowers and Sons has its construction business, there is a ghost, too. Like the mysterious visitor to Borough Hall — a defeated office-holder, perhaps? — he, too, climbs the stairs.

"My grandfather was a cabinetmaker in Jugtown," (the intersection of Nassau and Harrison) "and he lived in that Queen's Court house while my father was growing up," recalls Grace Brown Harris, in the current issue of The Princeton Recollector.

"Many times, my father and grandfather would hear footsteps climbing the stairs in the high section of the house. On several occasions, my grandfather would take a lamp and follow the steps upstairs, all the way to the third floor, but there they would always stop."

They never came down again. Always, each time, they went up.

Nobody knows who that ghost is. Mrs. Allen says ghosts stay in places where they have suffered profound unhappiness or even tragedy. Perhaps, she speculates, the spirit is locked into the trauma, or simply has an attachment to stay near a tragically departed loved one — like Mr. Seeger?

The young Hessian soldier who makes his home in "The Barracks," 32 Edgehill Street, met the tragic end of so many young soldiers: he died of battle wounds in a strange and distant land. His death occurred during the Battle of Princeton in the kitchen of The Barracks, a room that is now a little parlor.

A Friendly Soul. "He is small of stature, and in full uniform," says Mrs. Lewis B. Cuyler, who lives in the house. "An amiable ghost — he appears each Christmas Eve at midnight, smiles, and quietly goes up the chimney."

"No, I haven't seen him, nor has my husband, but we do hear strange noises. Our daughter, Julianna, saw him when she was seven years old. She told us he was wearing a Willkie campaign button!" Julianna, now Mrs. James McIntyre, lives next door to "The Barracks."

He was also seen by a deceased University professor whom Mrs. Cuyler smilingly declines to identify.

The young Hessian, by all rights, shouldn't be visible or audible any more at all, because he was formally exorcized in 1939.

"Some members of our household were uneasy when we moved here," Mrs. Cuyler relates, "and the Rev. Arthur Kinsolving exorcized the ghost for us, using the old service in the Church of England prayerbook."

The noises still persist....

"I would call them creaks and bumps," Mrs. Cuyler says, "No, it isn't frightening. If it were some big, white scary thing, but this is a soldier-boy who was friendly and amiable. That's quite another thing."

Mrs. Allen watches eagerly for Jennie Jerome Churchill, mother of Winston, who stayed in the Allen home at 40 Mercer when she was a young girl. So far, it's only a television shadow.

Nobody seems frightened of these ghosts, except those uneasy members of the Cuyler household. They even add a certain cachet to a house — certainly they testify to its age. Whoever heard of a ghost haunting a split-level! Real-estate agents, according to the New York Times, often find a ghost an asset (it's one way to sell a run-down old house) although prospective buyers have been known to run in fright at a creaking floor-board.

But ghosts do seem to avoid Princeton. Townspeople here are practical, less disposed to translate sounds into spiritual phenomena, Mrs. Allen suggests. Also, they do not live close to the land, as people do in the south and New England. In those areas, she says, people have greater respect for nature, and by extension, super-nature.

Do you believe in ghosts?

"It's safer to believe," Mrs. Allen says, "What have you got to lose?"

MORATORIUM TO EASE?

Not Yet. In spite of news stories saying the state will ease its ban on sewer connections, Princeton's sewer moratorium seems as firm as ever.

"We haven't had any word about easing it," said Borough engineer George Olexa this week.

The ban on sewer connections in Princeton Borough and Township was imposed by the state in February, 1972. In all, 74 bans are in effect throughout New Jersey. James Maguire of the Division of Water Resources of the Department of Environmental Protection, has been quoted as saying that bans will be avoided in the future, and bans now in existence will be lifted or modified, provided some improvement in water quality can be demonstrated, or provided a sewer plant is being built.

Construction may start next month on the new River Road treatment plant being constructed by the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

In Mr. Olexa's time-table, a lifted moratorium is a long way off. First, he points out, the current infiltration-inflow study must be completed, and that's scheduled for February of next year. Then Princeton must apply for Federal money to do the corrective work that the study shows needs to be done. "June, at the earliest," he predicts, "before the money comes through."

If the study and the Federal grant to fix things don't move the state to lift the ban, then Princeton will have to wait three years until the sewer plant is completed, Mr. Olexa says.

REPUBLICANS ASSAILED
By Angry Mayor Bleiman. Soft-voiced Mayor Jay Bleiman of the Township, raised his voice in rare anger this week over Republican campaign tactics.

"Misleading, if not irresponsible, but even worse than that!" the mayor exclaimed, characterizing Republican advertisements which have, in the mayor's words, "sounded as though Township Committee is hell-bent on turning Princeton into an environmental disaster."

Advertisements have shown photographs of gasoline-alley style communities, contrasted with sylvan scenes, or photographs of the recent floods, and have suggested that the Township is headed down the gasoline alley, with untrammeled population growth and uncontrolled floods.

"I cannot believe Republicans I have worked with --- Jack Wallace, Dean Chace, Barbara Smoyer --- can associate themselves with the current campaign," the mayor said. "Those Republicans know how we have worked, in a non-partisan way, on Committee and Planning Board, to grapple with these complex issues of growth, housing and the environment."

"If it comes down to 'people-plus, environment-minus', then Democrats are on the side of people, and I've been under the impression Republicans were as well. But there is strong insinuation that these Republican candidates are on the environmental side. This is no black-white area — it's a very gray, marginal situation where value judgments have to be made."

"Princeton is an enlightened, concerned community and there are clear, non-partisan concerns on major social goals --- social, environmental and community goals," the mayor said, "I could be charitable and say that the Republican candidates are ill-informed, but I'm afraid it's politics — worse than politics."

The mayor pointed out that the Planning Board's chairman, Hans K. Sander, is a Township Republican and the board's vice-chairman, Margen Penick, is a Borough Republican.

IT'S THE PRINCIPAL OF THE THING: Yep, that's right. It's Murray Cohan, principal of Johnson Park School, deep into the spirit of Hallowe'en and even deeper into that Hallowe'en clown's head. We have only the word of photographer Pryde Brown that it is indeed Mr. Cohen. The principal himself had a little trouble getting his words out.

CHEAP AT THE PRICE
$1,000 for Borough Lawyer. Each of the 20-odd towns trying to stave off a whomping tax jump under the state's thorough-and-efficient education bill is contributing $1,000 toward the fee of attorney Robert Wilentz.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley remarked at his press conference Tuesday that the sum isn't much, when you consider the $400,000 or so that might be dumped on the Borough taxpayer's head. Actually, some 40 municipalities are affected by the new law, but only about half have agreed to band together and hire a lawyer. The others, presumably, are riding free, and will benefit from any legislation drafted by Mr. Wilentz and guided through the legislature to a successful passage.

TWO STUDENTS ROBBED
Of $40 In Armed Holdup. Two Princeton University students were robbed of $40 Monday night in their room in Middle Dod Hall.

Police report that two men, one brandishing an automatic pistol, entered the students' room around 10:30 p.m. and took $35 from the wallet of one victim and $5 from the other.

The suspect carrying the pistol was described as 21 to 23, 5-11, 185, with short hair and wearing a three-quarter length black leather coat. The second, wearing a brown leather jacket, was described as 23-25, 6-1, 170 to 180, medium build with a medium Afro.

Just prior to the holdup, the same two suspects confronted a student in a women's room in Edwards Hall. According to police, one of the two slapped her and she screamed, causing the suspects to leave.

THOSE DRAINAGE PLANS
(But Not Yedtin's). Stormwater retention facilities, the hot news item of the year in Princeton, will be on the Planning Board's agenda for the board's meeting next Wednesday, November 5, at 8 p.m. But it's not public housing this time. It's the plan of Commodities Corporation, Mt. Lucas Road, for an addition to existing research facilities.

Commodities Corporation has been before the site-plan review board—which originally classified the addition as a minor sub-division. But objectors to the stormwater retention design asked for a public hearing on the matter before the whole Planning Board. A minor subdivision doesn't require a public hearing.

The Planning Board will also look over its proposed 1976 budget. No details are available.

PARADE THURSDAY
Halloween Party Planned. Princeton's youngsters will gather in costume Thursday at 6:15 in the High School parking yard, corner of Walnut Lane and Franklin Avenue for the Big Costume Parade that ends up in the Chestnut Street Firehouse for a Halloween Party.

For the first time, the Parade will proceed on Franklin Avenue to Linden Lane, to Hamilton Avenue, to Harrison Street, and to Lloyd Terrace. There the assembled witches and goblins will parade before the senior citizens, who in turn will present each child with a special treat.

Then it is along Harrison Street to Nassau and then to Chestnut for the big party. Refreshments, entertainment, treats and music will highlight the festivities. In case of rain, all goblins, witches and black cats may go directly to the Firehouse at 6:30.

Martin P. Lombardo, chairman of this year's Princeton Halloween Festival, has praised the Princeton merchants who are making available the Senior Citizens' complimentary gifts. Merchants have also donated gifts for the party, and the Princeton Borough Democratic Club has made a financial contribution to the event.

HELP FOR DINKY?

Looks More Hopeful. It may be one minute to midnight on the Dinky's timetable, but there is new hope this week that the shuttle can be saved in that nick of the hour.

Congresswoman Millicent Fenwick, who represents Princeton—as well as other commuter towns—has joined with New Jersey Senator Harrison Williams (see following story) to assemble an amendment to the Omnibus Transportation Bill that would fund the Dinky and other passenger lines for one year.

Senator Williams' own bill, which has been the hope of salvation for the Dinky, "may not fly," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley this week. He said he had this information from contacts in the House of Representatives. But the omnibus measure clearly will pass both houses of Congress, the mayor said, and it looks as though the amendment can ride along as the caboose.

"It will be a concentrated New Jersey effort, across party lines," Mayor Cawley said. Mrs. Fenwick is a Republican and Senator Williams is a Democrat. The mayor added that Senator Williams' bill isn't dead yet by any means. "Two possibilities are better than one," he said.

FENWICK BACKS PLAN

To Aid Dinky. Representative Millicent Fenwick (R., 5th Dist., N.J.) has endorsed the concepts of a Special Impact Fund to subsidize commuter lines.

In a letter to Chairman James Howard (D-NJ), of the Subcommittee on Transportation, Mrs. Fenwick asked that an amendment be added to the Omnibus Bill for Railroad Reorganization to protect the commuter lines. The amendment would propose to set up this special fund under the Urban Mass Transportation Administration and would offer 100 per cent subsidy for one year.

"The issue here is how are we going to insure that our commuter lines will operate," Mrs. Fenwick said. "There have been a large number of bills which try to address this problem, but there is also a great deal of duplication and real confusion on what is to be done.

"I hope and believe that this amendment has a good chance of being accepted by the committee and by the Congress as a whole. What we need is a guarantee that the commuter lines will be subsidized and will remain a vital part of our transportation system.

"I am particularly concerned that a practical solution be found for lines such as the Dinky, and I believe here we have a plan which not only is a good one, but one that Congress will accept," Mrs. Fenwick further stated.

Mrs. Fenwick has been in touch with Mayor Robert Cawley of Princeton and representatives of Save the Dinky Committee to discuss with them the effort to keep the line running.

APARTMENT ENTERED

Stereo, TV Taken. A television set, stereo equipment, calculator and jazz tapes with a combined value of $690 were stolen last week from the apartment of Ellen T. Waitt, 134 Alexander Street.

Police report that a small pane of glass was broken in a bathroom window and a piece of wire inserted to pull down the lock. Ptl. Mario Musso investigated the theft, reported at 4:30 Thursday afternoon.

Robert M. Gearhart of Lourie-Love Hall on the University campus told police that while he was taking a shower Thursday morning, he saw a stranger enter his room and stuff something into his pocket. Investigating, he discovered $23 missing from his trousers which he had left on a chair the night before.

University Proctor Denzil Turton said that the suspect had confronted Talli Roebuck five minutes before as she exited from a rest room and had asked directions to the men's room.

He was described as black, 25, 5-8, muscular with a short hair cut, wearing a dark brown or green T-shirt, tan pants and brown leather visor cap.

Professional Bldg. Entered. At least two doctors' offices in a professional building at 66 Mt. Lucas Road were entered during the weekend.

A desk drawer in the third-floor office of Dr. Valentine Dedulin was forced but there were no pry marks on the office door, leading Township police to believe a key was used to enter.

Dorothy Simms, a nurse for the medical office of Doctors Silverman, Bierman, Atkins and Katz, reported the entry of that office. The only thing taken were six keys to the building from a forced cabinet. The two main entrances to the building were locked, police said.

There was also an attempt to enter the first-floor office of Dr. Olaf Haroldson. Ptl. David Cromwell investigated.

TO HURDLE FIVE CARS

Monday, on Campus. A juggler riding a rocket-powered unicycle will attempt to jump over five 1976 Volkswagens at 8 p.m. Monday in front of Theatre Intime on the University campus.

Penn Jillette, a six-foot, six-inch 20-year old who trained at Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey, will make the Evel Knievel-style stunt to promote the Asparagus Valley Cultural Society. Not a horticultural group as one might expect, the society consist of entertainers who will perform a show of magic, juggling, music and comedy at Theatre Intime November 7, 8 and 9.

Mr. Jillette will become airborne in the Asparajet I, a Schwinn model unicycle powered by two rockets mounted on the frame. The rockets are designed to thrust the unicycle to a mean velocity of more than 28 feet per second in the attempt to set a new world's record of 30 feet, five inches for car jumping.

DRUG CHARGE RESULT

Of Good Turn. When Ptl. David Alston, on foot patrol early Sunday morning, saw a car unattended in the parking lot behind the Nassau Inn with its motor running and lights out, he attempted to turn the engine off.

As he reached in, he allegedly observed a wooden pipe with marijuana on the floor and a small plastic bag containing marijuana in the car's center console. About this time, the owner John Murphy, 21, of Trenton appeared. He was arrested, charged with possession of under 25 grams of marijuana and released. The incident took place at 12:45 a.m.

WHERE ARE THE REPUBLICANS? These ere all Democrats, even the three in front (yes, three: see the hand holding thet horned mask?) The one in the middle, just right of the two horns, is mayoral candidate Jan Schneier. The Minute Man, with Peul Revere's ghost looming over his head, is Council candidate Gus Escher and the Fairy Princess is Council member and candidate for re-election, Barbara Sigmund. The point, of course, is that Borough Democrats are sponsoring this year's Hallowe'en Parade. The three goblins ere close relatives of Council member Sigmund.

BODY RECOVERED

Of Second Drowning Victim. The body of a Princeton Junction man, one of two brothers who disappeared when their boat capsized in torrential rains October 19, was recovered Saturday.

The body of Delmar Merritt, 34, of 45 Wallace Road, Princeton Junction, was found by a cabin cruiser floating several miles offshore near Cape May.

A passing tanker spotted the body of Larry D. Merritt, 25, of Hamilton Township, earlier in the week. A third brother, Albert, 29, of Hightstown, survived by swimming to shore when the 12-foot aluminum boat turned over. As the strongest swimmer of the three, he had been selected to swim toward land for help while the others clung to the overturned craft.

JEWELRY BOX STOLEN

During Move-In. The most expensive theft listed by the police last week occurred between 12:40 and 1:30 Thursday afternoon while the victim was moving into a Wiggins Street home.

While movers were carrying items into the house, police said, someone stole a jewelry box containing "a quantity of jewelry" valued at $2700.

There were three wallet thefts in the Borough. At the Engineering Quadrangle, a secretary left an office and $22 was taken from a wallet in a desk drawer. Twelve dollars was taken from a wallet in a coat left in an unoccupied room between 11 and 12 at the Frick Chemical Lab, and $12 from a purse left on the front seat of an unlocked car parked Monday on Quarry Street. The victim told police that she had left her car for only five minutes.

A 35mm camera valued at $200 was stolen Friday from a car parked in a Palmer Square lot. Police said a window was forced to enter the locked car.

Parked cars were the targets of thieves in the Township as well. Lysiane Sutherland, 180 Laurel Circle, told police that two tennis rackets, a blue sport coat and two record albums were removed from her car last week while it was parked at the Rusty Scupper Restaurant. Total value of the items: $261. A rear window had been knocked out to gain entry.

A citizens' band radio valued at $170 was taken Friday from a car parked in the Princeton Shopping Center. A vent window had been pried to get inside, police said, who identified the owner as Frederic A. Freese, Sr. of Franklin Township.

Earlier in the week, another citizens band radio—a favorite item among thieves—and a tape recorder were stolen from a car parked in Shopping Center lot from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Police said that apparently a wire coat hanger was used to gain entrance to the car. Owner Jack Seeley valued the two items at $180.

Victor Silverstein, 4 Howe Circle, did not lose anything inside his car, but...

Police report someone jacked up his car while it was parked in his drive last week and removed four steel belted radial tires and four tire rims. Dr. Silverstein's total loss was $390.

Malicious Damage to Cars. The owners of two cars were the victims of vandals. Richard Hankinson, 168 Harrison Street, told police someone squirted zip strip paint remover over his car during the night while it was parked in his drive. Sgt. Robert Heacock reported that paint on the hood, roof and right rear panel was removed.

A South Somerville resident, Glen N. Padla, parked his car on Cherry Valley Road near Mountain View Road Monday to go deer hunting. When he returned two hours later at 7 p.m., he discovered two windows and the windshield had been smashed and the air let out of all four tires. "Someone doesn't like deer hunters," observed Chief Frederick Porter.

STUDENT ASSAULTED

With Umbrella. A university student, walking on Prospect Avenue at 1:20 Sunday morning, was confronted by a man who suddenly struck him on the head with an umbrella.

The victim was treated at the universary infirmary where sutures were used to close a laceration of the scalp.

Chief Michael Carnevale said that there is no known reason for the unprovoked attack. No words were exchanged between the assailant and his victim, he said. The only description police have of the suspect is that he is tall. Ptl. David Alston investigated.

SPEEDER CHARGED

With Obscene Language. A traffic violation led to a criminal charge last week for James S. Matt, 24, of Philadelphia.

Matt was clocked speeding 47 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone on Harrison Street by Ptl. Harry Morton, who caught up with him in the Princeton Shopping Center. He allegedly became abusive toward the officer and directed obscene language at him in the presence of nearby women shoppers. After being charged, Mr. Matt was released, pending his appearance in Township court.

CYCLIST IS STRUCK

On Nassau Street. Emily Whitney, 17, 65 Linwood Circle, was struck by a car Thursday shortly after 5 as she attempted to cross Nassau Street on her bicycle near Tulane Street. She complained of minor injuries to her buttocks, head and left arm.

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino noted in his report that speed was not a factor in the accident and he made no charges against the driver, Sharon R. Truszkowski, 18, 54 Lake Road, Kingston. The victim, who was not in a crosswalk at the time of the mishap, allegedly failed to observe traffic coming to her left.

DEBAUCHERY CHARGED

Against Bronxville Resident. Jerome Cohen, 48, of Bronxville, N.Y., has been charged with debauchery and open lewdness by Township and Borough police in connection with several incidents in both communities involving young girls. He is presently free on bail awaiting his appearance in court.

Cohen was arrested at 3:50 Thursday afternoon in Princeton Shopping Center by Det. Anthony Pinelli and Chief Frederick Porter, after he had allegedly approached a young girl in the Shopping Center. Township police charged him with debauchery or impairing the morals of a child. Cohen was later released in $250 bail.

Township police are presently investigating the possibility of the defendant's having been involved with two other counts of debauchery of juvenile girls on Sept. 30 and Oct. 16, both at the Shopping Center. Most of the girls involved are between 10 and 13, police said. They added that Cohen is a contractor who comes to the Princeton area twice a week.

Alerted by Borough. Township police were alerted to Cohen Thursday by Borough police after he allegedly approached two girls, both 10, and asked where he could change clothes. "This was the same modus operandi used in a number of other cases," commented Chief Michael Carnevale, who added that the Borough has recently been plagued with incidents of open lewdness.

The two girls went to the corner of Nassau and Vandeventer and phoned police. They had become suspicious of Cohen, Chief Carnevale recounted, because friends of theirs had been approached in the same manner.

Lt. John J. Bellow and other patrol cars responded to the call, sending a description by radio at the same time to Township police who made the arrest.

Cohen was charged with obstructing and interfering, by Borough police and later released in $750 bail. In addition, Juvenile Officer Douglas Watson has signed three complaints against Cohen, the first accusing him of indescent exposure before two girls, 12 and 13, Sept. 24 in a Nassau Street hallway.

The other two charge Cohen with open lewdness: one Oct. 4 with two girls, 6 and 10, in the Palmer Square area, and again, Oct. 8, with two girls, 9 and 10, on the university campus near Dillon Gym.

Tapes for New Book Representing Months Of Work and Travel Stolen from Author

Alvin Schwartz is distraught—and with good reason.

While Mr. Schwartz was watching the final game of the World Series last week in his home at 50 Southern Way, someone broke into his work studio next door and stole some 35 to 40 tape cassettes which were to be used in a book he is writing about what it was like to grow up in this country at the turn of the century. The material on those tapes—gathered over three months travels, most of it in the Northwest—is irreplaceable.

Mr. Schwartz, a well-known writer of children's books, pleads for their return. "All I want is the material back," he said. He offered to give the cassettes back later "if that's what they want."

The tapes contain folk music and all kinds of reminiscences from kids who grew up in a cowboy environment, from Northwest Indians, from those who remember the San Francisco fire. "It's totally irreplaceable and would mean nothing to anybody else," said Mr. Schwartz.

He is fearful that whoever took the tapes will erase the material and use them to record music. Although there is some folk music on them, he commented, the tapes are not ideal for music but primarily designed for talking.

Should the thief heed Mr. Schwartz's appeal and wish to return the tapes, he should drop them in the metal return box outside the Princeton Public Library.

FOUR FLEE ACCIDENT

All Are Arrested. Four men who fled when their stolen car struck two parked cars on Nassau Street near Pine early Sunday morning have been arrested and charged by Borough police.

Charged with possession of a stolen car, reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident are Ronald Harris, 18, and Tyrone McCutcheon, 19. Bail was set at $1,000 each and McCutcheon was remanded to Mercer County Jail when he failed to make bail. A court hearing for both is scheduled for November 5.

The other two are juveniles, age 17 and 16. They were released to their parents, pending further action by juvenile authorities. All four are residents of North Brunswick.

According to police, their car struck two parked cars shortly after 1 a.m. Witnesses saw them flee the scene and Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt issued a radio alert and description. A police check revealed that the suspects' car had been stolen from Franklin Township. The $5300 car was a total wreck, police said.

At 1:30, Township police reported that they had stopped four men who fit the description on the Princeton-Kingston Road. The two witnesses were taken by police to the scene where they made a positive identification.

BOROUGH MAN CHARGED

With Armed Robbery. Douglas Griggs, 26, 216 Witherspoon Street, has been charged with armed robbery and atrocious assault and battery with a knife, following a police investigation of an armed robbery attempt of a Short Hills resident October 11 in a Tulane Street parking lot.

Griggs, arrested Thursday by Det. Ronald Holliday, who has been conducting the investigation, was later remanded to the Mercer County Detention Center in lieu of $10,000 bail.

During the attempted holdup, the victim, who received a neck laceration requiring 13 sutures, was able to bite severely one of his attackers on the finger. Griggs's injured finger was examined by assistant Mercer County Medical Examiner Dr. Mathew Lapin who stated the wound was the result of a human bite.

$50 PER PLATE

For G.O.P. Fundraising Dinner. Senator Howard Baker (R., Tenn.) will be the speaker at the annual Mercer County Republican Fundraiser, to be held this Thursday at the Nassau Inn.

Norbert Donelly and Charles W. Roll, Jr. are co-chairmen of this year's dinner. Tickets are available at $50 per person and may be obtained by calling 392-5165. Cocktails will be served at 6, followed by dinner at 7.

Vaccine against New Type of Flu to Be Given Free Next Week by Town's 2 Boards of Health

The chronically-ill and the elderly can weather winter more safely—and possibly avoid serious health complications if they are immunized against this season's new strain of influenza.

That caution was posted recently by the Borough and Township boards of health which will cosponsor the first annual free flu immunization program next Monday and Thursday. The vaccine will be given from 1-3 on Monday at Mount Pisgah Church on Witherspoon Street, and from 6-8 p.m. on Thursday in the Community Room of Spruce Circle Housing, North Harrison Street.

Borough Health Officer David Blake and Township Health Officer Herman Lavan said the program could help avoid serious complications for those in the "high risk" group. Included in that group are those over 65, and those with chronic heart or kidney disease, diabetes, asthma, bronchitis, emphysema or TB.

Mr. Blake and Mr. Lavan said the flu injections are part of comprehensive preveotive medicine activities conducted throughout the year by the boards of health.

"The Borough and Township frequently work together, and now we're joining forces with the Health Commlttee of the Council of Community Services and The Medical Center because we all recognize that senior citizens throughout the area are not receiving flu injections, but should be," Mr. Blake said.

The boards of health are cosponsoring the program with the Department of Community Health Services of The Medical Center. The Medical Center will obtain the services of a physician and nurse at no charge, while the health officers will recruit community volunteers to handle registration and other details. The boards of health will purchase needed doses of the vaccine.

Full medical supervision, including a brief observatior period following the arm administered injection, make the treatment relatively risk-free, according to Dr. Robert J. Kreb, 3rd, Medical Director of the Department of Community Health Services for The Medical Center. Dr. Kreb cautioned, however, that anyone allergic to eggs or fowl should not receive the injection.

Dr. Kreb noted that, whil only 10-15 percent of the "high risk" group receive vaccination, "Repeated observations during most influenza epidemics indicate that fatalities are almost completely restricted to the chronically-ill and the elderly. Influenza vaccines are highly-purified and should produce few severe adverse effects," Dr. Kreb said.

...FOR FREEHOLDER

Republican Makes Statement. Rita L. Strmensky, who is running for Mercer County Freeholder on the Republican ticket, listed this week the issues she regards as "critical" for county taxpayers.

Analyzing all programs for economy, is first on her list, followed by "the need for an administrative code to bring "free-spending autonomous bodies under control of an elected official."

She asked for a regional approach to problem-solving, especially regarding flood-control and economic development. Improved services, like road maintenance, bus routing and aid to the elderly are required, she said, and she urged justification of the need "for such projects as the proposed airport expansion."

Mrs. Strmensky declared that two-party government would bring "a different economic point of view to the stale 100-percent Democrat Freeholder Board."

"Democrats are running on their record and the record is not good," she stated. "There are problems in Mercer County that the all-Democrat Freeholders will not address, such as traffic and crowd control for the Bicentennial celebration and wide-spread flooding. Citizens are simply not receiving services that justify the 25-35 percent of their property taxes that are paid to the county."

LECTURERS ANNOUNCED

Shultz, Galbratth Coming. Princeton University has announced that the Janeway Lectures, its most distinguished visiting lectureship series in the social sciences, will be given in the academic years 1975-76 and 1976-77, respectively, by former U.S. Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and economist-author John Kenneth Galbraith.

Mr. Shultz, an undergraduate alumnus of Princeton, labor economist, and former Dean of the University of Chicago School of Business, served in the Nixon Administration as Secretary of Labor and Director of the Office of Management and Budget before becoming Secretary of the Treasury and Counselor to the President in 1972. Mr. Shultz, now a West Coast business executive, will speak on Tuesday and Wednesday on "Reflections on Wage and Price Controls" in the auditorium of Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School.

The two lectures, each at 8 p.m. and open to the public, will examine retrospectively a central strand of the economic policies of which Mr. Shultz was chief architect during his years in the U.S. Treasury and White House. His first lecture will be chaired by his friend and former University of Chicago colleague, Princeton economist and Provost Albert Rees, who recently returned to the University after serving as Chairman of President Ford's Council on Wage and Price Stability.

Mr. Galbraith, the 1976-77 Janeway lecturer, formerly Ambassador to India, adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, chairman of Americans for Democratic Action, and president of the American Economic Association, recently retired from the Harvard Economics Department. The topic and dates for his lectures, which will take place in the spring of 1977, have not yet been determined.

DR. MEAD TO SPEAK

Monday in Atexander Hall. Dr. Margaret Mead, noted anthropologist and culturalist, will speak at Princeton University on Monday on "The Changing American Character" as part of the Bicentennial Lecture Series, "Future of the U.S.: After 200 Years Where Do We Go From Here?" Sponsored by the Spencer Trask Fund, the talk, which is open to the public without charge, will be given at 8:30 p.m. in Alexander Hall on the campus.

Dr. Mead, a graduate of both Barnard and Columbia Universities, is perhaps best known for her anthropological studies of South Seas cultures, which resulted in a series of books on their societal organizations. A veteran of extensive field study, she was

EXCESS CANDY SOUGHT

Halloween Surplus for NJNPI. The Youth Services Program of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor its third annual Trick or Treat this Halloween to collect candy for the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute in Skillman.

The institute needs all types of candy, which is used not only for the entire patient population, but also as a part of its Behavior Modification Program. The candy need not be Halloween type, but it must be wrapped. People interested in donating to this project are asked not to donate money—only candy.

The candy will be collected at the Red Cross Chapter House, 182 North Harrison Street, where everyone is invited to bring the surplus candy that youngsters collect on Halloween from 9 - 4:30. Candy will be accepted on November 3, 4, and 5 only, no candy will be accepted after that date. For further information, contact Mary Ann Fazio at 924-2404.

PARENT GROUPS BEGUN

By Mental Health Clinic. The Whitney Center, 253 Nassau Street, one of the mental health clinicbranches of the Community Guidance Center of Mercer County, is concerned about the "lonely parent syndrome" and is doing something about it.

The "lonely parent syndrome" states Mrs. Dorothy Rounds, director of the center, "relates not to loneliness but to parents in the community who live in communicative isolation and therefore cannot share their problems with anyone." Co - therapist of this group is Dr. Hans Priester who explains that there are many parents who find themselves in this isolated pocket.

Many parents, asserts Dr. Priester, especially young parents, have small problems with youngsters in their formative years. These parents become frustrated, disillusioned and feel inadequate because their knowledge and experience goes just so far. States Dr. Priester, "The parents face these problems alone and do not feel the need to go to a mental health center since they feel the need isn't great enough." However, Dr. Priester and Mrs. Rounds point out that small problems have a way of getting out of hand. Mrs. Rounds and Dr. Priester have recently begun an Adoptive Parents Group, a series of meetings which are dedicated to discussing problems of young adoptive parents "allowing them to share experiences, dilemmas and solutions." The need for such groups is also indicative for parents of pre - schoolers, adolescents, and divorcees.

The Center will later this year sponsor other parents groups and will offer another public forum for adoptive parents. The Ceoter, and the other Centers of the Community Guidance Center of Mercer County, encourages parents who feel the need to call and feel free to get information and help. Interested parties are encouraged to call the Whitney Center, 924-2896; the Trenton Center, 695-8542 and the Hamilton Center, 587-7044.

$3,435 more than last year and reflects further expansion of this program.

Family Service has been involved in serving migrants for the past ten years in a program centered in the Hightstown office under the direction of William Rhoads, District Director. Ranal Hardrick, social service aide, is assigned on a full time basis to the work, which involves out-reach to migrants on their farms.

Family Service also has a program of individual, marriage, and family counseling, alcoholism counseling, group therapy and family life education. It serves as a training center for student interns from Rutgers University, Pennsylvania State University, Georgian Court College and Trenton State College. These programs are conducted in both the Princeton and Hightstown offices.

GRANT TO HUN SCHOOL

For Foreign Students Program. A foundation grant of $30,000 has been received by The Hun School for advanced development of its Special Program for Foreign Students.

The two-year matching grant from the C.V. Starr Foundation of New York, which made a previous gift of $30,000 to originate the program in 1973, will be used to support faculty specialists in teaching and guiding overseas students, and for an expanded curriculum introduced this fall.

Dr. Paul R. Chesebro, Headmaster of Hun, said the program "is aimed at creating teaching and guidance techniques which not only will benefit the 30 overseas students now at Hun, but which will be shared with other preparatory schools, thereby assisting the many thousands of foreign students preparing for American universities."

Among the curriculum innovations introduced are three English courses of gradually increased difficulty which foreign students take prior to entering regular English classes. A new course in American Culture has also been designed specifically for foreign students.

The Hun program provides for an August orientation session when students "settle into" the Princeton community and have time to become acquainted with their teachers and course materials prior to the opening of school. The Hun Mothers' Auxiliary also provides a Host Family for each student throughout the academic year.

The Foreign Students Program, directed by Arthur Rozas, includes Miss Eileen Julian, James Kerr and David Papier. Mrs. Sergio Bonotto heads the Host Program for the Hun Auxiliary.

VENICE....IN PERIL

Film to be Shown. The plight of Venice, ravaged by pollution, time and the sea, and the contrast with the excitement and splendor of one of the city's oldest traditions, the annual regatta, is set forth in the film, "The Great Gondola Race" to be shown at the Princeton University Art Museum next Wednesday, November 5 at 8:30 p.m.

Proceeds will go to Save Venice, Inc., and the $5 admission fee is tax-deductible. Students will be admitted for $2.50. A reception will be held after the showing and the audience is invited to attend.

Friends of the Art Museum are sponsoring the film for Save Venice, Inc., an organization devoted to restoring and preserving the art and architecture of the city. Views of restoration projects and still shots of works of art are interspersed with the race on the Grand Canal.

The film was directed by Humphrey Burton, the British film director.

AFRICAN STORYTELLING

At Public Library. Princeton Public Library will present a storytelling special on Wednesday, November 12, at 3:30.

Mrs. Gladys Bisi Ogunleye, born in Nigeria and now a storyteller at The Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, will tell African stories, interspersed, as they would be in Africa, with music and dance. Tickets for the program are free and may be picked up at the children's desk in the Library.

PLANNING IS TOPIC

Of University Women's Meeting. The Princeton Branch of the American Association of University Women will continue its study topic, "The 21st Century—Deciding Now," at its meeting Wednesday, at 7:45 at All Saints' Chapel, VanDyke Road.

The discussion will center around a film presentation by the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council, which shows the area lying between Trenton and New Brunswick and Somerville and the New Jersey Turnpike as it now is. Goals of the Study Council towards inter-county and inter-municipal consultation for regional development will be presented.

A report will also be heard on the joint AAUW-Professional Roster Workshop, "Recycle Yourself for Today's World," which will end on the day of the meeting. For more information on membership, call Judy Hamilton at 799-1328 or Marilyn Lynch at 924-6655.

Rep. for Dem.

A Borough Republican, defeated in last year's election, has announced her support for a Borough Democratic candidate. (And also for a couple of Republicans.)

Mary Stewart Allen, who ran for Council in 1974 on the Republican ticket, is supporting Democratic incumbent Barbara Sigmund. Mrs. Allen also endorses Mayor Robert W. Cawley and Council candidate John Bleimeier.

"Even though we have not always seen eye to eye on all things," Mrs. Allen said this week, "I hold Mrs. Sigmund's judgment and integrity in the highest esteem. The energy, intelligence and concern she has given our community and its individuals, together with her governmental knowledge and skills, make her one of Princeton's more valuable assets."

Mrs. Allen adds that her endorsement was not sought by any of the three candidates and is made without their prior knowledge.

Bob Cawley for Mayor

LET'S HAVE SOME STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT CONSOLIDATION

- Consolidation can only be decided in a special referendum by the voters—not by the Mayor and Council.
- A study commission has been set up to determine the feasibility of consolidation. No recommendation has been made because all the facts are not known.
- Bob Cawley has fought very hard to insure that we are not forced into consolidation through an unfair redistribution of school financing in the Princeton Regional School System.

These are indisputable facts. The only real issue in this campaign is one of qualifications and Bob Cawley has them:

The buffet supper is also expected to raise funds to help fianance exchange scholarships.

Persons interested in attending the International Buffet Saturday in the school cafeteria should phone Karen Sanchez at Franklin High School, 873-2400, ext. 230, for reservations. Tickets are $3 for adults and $2 for children ages two to 12.

For Retired Persons at YMCA. The Princeton YMCA has several programs under way and being planned for retired persons.

A weekly art class, taught by Mrs. Constance Bonnotto, meets Thursday mornings from 10 until noon. A bridge club meets, with Howard Waxwood giving informal instruction. More men are sought for this, and in addition the Bridge Club can be expanded to other card games.

The Y's Fitness class is held, free of charge, Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 11 to 11:45.

Final arrangements are being made for the November 16-22 trip to Disney World in Florida and for a Tuesday, December 2, trip to New York to see the Christmas Show at Radio City Music Hall. The latter includes shopping and lunch, the Nativity scene and stage show at Radio City and the film, "The Sunshine Boys." Mrs. Jenny Jackson will serve as trip leader for the two trips and can provide details if called at 924-4787.

The Association of Retired Persons meets regularly on the second Thursday of the month at 2 and is scheduling a special arthritis program on November 20. The community-wide Christmas Feast and Festival is planned for December 17.

ILLITERACY IS TOPIC

For Windsor PTA Program. The West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District PTA will devote its meeting next Wednesday at 8 in the Maurice Hawk School to the New Jersey Right to Read State Plan. Right to Read is a national and state program to eradicate illiteracy using a variety of reading techniques in the school curriculum and including reading instruction for adult illiterates where applicable.

Sister Nancy Gracia, Assistant Superintendent of Elementary Education, Diocese of Trenton, will open the program with the background of the Right to Read Plan. Gerard A. Schaller, Assistant Principal of Maurice Hawk, will explain goals and an overview of the plan. Mrs. Helen Paver, reading teacher at Maurice Hawk, will explain the district's affiliation and involvement with the program.

The annual Book Fair will be held November 4-6. Books for all age levels and school sweatshirts will be available.

The Fair will be open at all elementary schools during school hours and at Dutch Neck School on November 4, from 7:30-10; at Maurice Hawk School on November 5, from 8-10:30; and at John Wicoff School on November 6, from 7:30-10. Parents are welcome during the day as well as in the evening.

ACTIVITIES PLANNED

By Ski Club. Hiking, tennis, resumption of meetings, and skiing are on the agenda for the Princeton Ski Club during November.

Fifteen ski trips, by bus and car, have been scheduled for the winter season, according to trip chairman Susan Foster, with the first set for Thanksgiving weekend, November 27-30, to the Bromley and Stratton areas of Vermont. Club members will stay at a lodge in Manchester, Vt.

Brian Lock leads the second "get set for skiing" hike on Sunday, November 9 to New Jersey's Lebanon State Forest. Subsequent Sunday afternoon jaunts are scheduled for Wharton State Forest.

An indoor tennis-buffet party is planned for Saturday, November 15 from 7 to midnight at the Hamilton Tennis Club, Quakerbridge Road, Hamilton Township, under direction of Fred and Carol Angeline.

Bi-weekly meetings are held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, 111 Prospect Street and start at 8. The November 5 meeting will be highlighted by movies and tips on "How to ski," and on November 19 there will be a discussion of techniques, equipment, and locations for cross country skiing.

AID TO UNICEF

Halloween Trick or Treat. For the 25th consecutive year, boys and girls in the Princeton area will participate in the Halloween Trick or Treat for UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund) Drive. Boxes for collecting donations may be obtained through the area schools and returned, after Halloween, to the schools or to the Princeton Public Library.

In its 29 years, UNICEF has accomplished a great deal to combat the hunger, disease and illiteracy that plague millions of children in Asia, Africa and Latin America. However, the costs of the materials provided by UNICEF, such as medicines, vaccines, dietary supplements and paper for textbooks have gone up in price from 20 to 100 percent. Donors are asked to give generously when UNICEF Trick or Treatsters come to the door Halloween night.

A Unique Opportunity Exists for Princeton Township

To Stop reacting to development and start acting in advance of it.

To Protect present and future residents from "natural" calamities like flooding.

To Identify areas of vulnerable natural resources.

To Show that there are areas appropriate and inappropriate for growth.

To Help developers plan projects more considerate of the environment and of the town's economic resources.

Princeton faces the possibility that the building moratorium will end while the economy is turning upward. There will be great pressure for development and population growth. Most of this growth would take place in the Township. Our proposed Master Plan shows little consideration for the environment in many of the areas where it calls for concentrated building.

In our opinion, the majority on the Township Committee and the Planning Board has not dealt with this significant weakness in the proposed Plan. We have a Natural Resource Inventory . . . a wonderfully detailed description of all the Township's environmental factors. We have had it for over a year, and there has been no visible effort to understand it or use it.

We can use this inventory to evaluate all undeveloped Township land for its suitability for development. Computers can handle this data quickly, accurately, objectively and inexpensively. They can help assess the risks and costs of development alternatives. They can show "good" and "bad" locations for any kind of growth. They can help residents, decision-makers, developers, architects and engineers to visualize problems and solutions.

We think that the era of piecemeal decisions and standard engineering solutions should end. We think that no one with an interest in Princeton should be afraid of a clear dispassionate program for our future development.

We've Been Talking About Making Hard Decisions. This is One We're Not Afraid of.

NO SETTLEMENT YET

On Township Police Contract. Following a 2¼ hour meeting Tuesday afternoon between Township officials and members of the Township police negotiating committee, Ptl. Robert Nielsen, president of the Princeton Patrolmen's Benevolent Association Local 130 reported that no settlement had been reached.

According to Ptl. Nielsen, Mayor Jay Bleiman, Township Administrator Joseph R. Nini, and Police Commissioner William Sutphin agreed to an 8½ percent salary increase for 1975 – retroactive to January 1 – and agreed to consider a medical prescription program.

At issue is the increase for 1976. Police want seven percent, the Township is offering six. Ptl. Nielsen reported Township officials told police they could not authorize the tentative seven percent, but hope to meet again on Friday or Monday.

"It appears to us," Ptl. Nielsen commented, "that the Township is trying to stall until Election Day is past."

Ptl. Nielsen also reported that the Public Employees Relation Committee (PERC) has contacted Township officials to determine if an impasse really exists. "According to PERC guidelines, we are already into 1976 negotiations," Ptl. Nielsen added.

The last two years of contract negotiations have been the most protracted for Township police. Last year, police required 11 months before reaching a settlement, Ptl. Nielsen pointed out; this year they are into the 11th month without a contract. "We usually settle by midsummer," he said.

COMPTROLLER TO SPEAK

On New York City Crisis. Harrison J. Goldin, comptroller of the city of New York, will speak on "New York's Financial Crisis" at 4:30 Thursday, November 13, in the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs Auditorium of Princeton University.

Mr. Goldin's talk is open to the public and presented under the auspices of the University's School of Architecture and Urban Planning. He is a member of the Princeton Class of 1957.

WORKSHOP PLANNED

In Japanese Flower Arranging. Miss Audrey Jocelyn, an internationally-known Ikebana (Japanese flower arranging) lecturer, writer and teacher will lead a workshop at the Unitarian Church on Monday.

A $10 fee will be charged and pre-registration is necessary. Call Mrs. Robert W. Eltz, 921-3449, for registration and further details.

ALL YOU CAN EAT

At Lawrence Lions Breakfast. The Lawrence Township Lions will hold their 10th annual Pancake Breakfast Sunday from 8 until 1, in the Slackwood Fire House, Slack Avenue and Route 1, across from Budny Tire Company.

Pancakes, sausage, coffee, butter, and syrup, are offered to adults at $2 and children at $1. Tickets may be purchased from any member or at the door, or by calling 396-8141.

Loop Bus Timetables Now Speak Italian

If you can read Italian, you can read the new Loop Bus schedules that will be available in about a week. (At St. Paul's Church, Hinkson's, the Shopping Center office, or from Serena Terziotti, Nancy De Meglio and Sydney Taggart.)

It was the suggestion of June Krane, manager of the Shopping Center, that timetables should be made more accessible to Princeton's Italian-speaking residents. Nancy Di Meglio, coordinator of English classes through St. Paul's Church, found an interpreter in Serena Terziotti, who worked evenings on the translation. Mrs. Taggart is having 400 schedules printed.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Taggart reports increased ridership. The unofficial passenger count for the week ending last Friday, was 1,265. The official reading for the week ending October 17, was 1,155.

And Crosstown '62, the 1976 Ford Maverick that zooms around town with senior citizens, offers another kind of transportation. This one, of course, is door-to-door, and it will take seniors anywhere in Borough or Township.

Crosstown operates Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. for 50 cents per ride. You must make reservations a day — or more — in advance by calling Sandie Rabinowitz, 924-6162 between 9 a.m. and noon, Monday through Friday.

Nassau Conover Motors has donated the Maverick; the Princeton Red Cross is providing office space, Hinkson's has given office supplies, George Gill, Inc. has contributed office furniture, and the Princeton Jaycees are responsible fnr Crosstown's 1975 revival.

policies. The only new item was a requirement that citizens who want a written statement read at a public meeting must submit it to the board secretary during office hours, prior to the meeting.

Does this obligate the board to read the statement? Judith Getis proposed and the board adopted an amendment leaving it up to the presiding officer.

"You must guard the right of the public to petition," warned Rosalind Frisch, from the audience, and Frank Soda from the high school faculty, asked how staff members could defend themselves against written statements from citizens submitted to the board.

After a lengthy debate on the meaning of "personal" (the board will not hear personal complaints about school personnel), the board adopted the policy on public participation, 9-0.

The policy on equal-opportunity hiring and promotion was sent back to the board's policy committee for more discussion of two alternative wordings of a resolution.

Bob Cawley for Mayor

THE NEXT FOUR YEARS WILL BE EXTREMELY CRITICAL FOR PRINCETON BOROUGH

WHY? Because of the possibility of unfavorable decisions in Trenton and Washington on school cost sharing, state aid and state support of sewer construction. And because of the threat of community polarization.

PRINCETON HAS A MAYOR WHO CAN HANDLE THESE PROBLEMS

Bob Cawley has represented the community in Trenton and Washington, D.C. He has worked tirelessly towards bringing the Borough together with the Plan-A-Town Meetings, the Art People's Party, the anti-discrimination housing ordinance, police-community relations programs. He formed the Transportation Committee and is committed to a Princeton Community Housing project for middle income people in the Borough. The Borough needs a Mayor who has experience and ability. Bob Cawley has both. Now he needs Dick Woodbridge, John Bleimaier and Pat Patterson to work with him.

Township Police Underpaid.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of an open letter to Township Committee:

The Township Police cover an 18-square mile area which is larger than the Borough, and receive LESS salary. I should think that you would at least equalize this situation. If each one of you would put yourself in an officer's shoes for a day, I am sure you would see what is due.

The Township Police are a hard working, loyal and courteous group of men and as such deserve recognition monetarily as well as verbally.

Bond Issue Questioned.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The package of objectives to be financed by New Jersey's proposed billion-dollar bond issue is clearly worthwhile, will provide some needed local employment and has the support of a respectable cross-section of New Jersey citizens. But there is no evidence that we New Jerseyans are conscious of the need to pay for this package out of taxes, either now or later.

Public bond issues (witness the plight of New York City) are not intended to serve as a substitute for tax revenue, but New Jersey's proposed bond issue is in political reality just that — a substitute for tax revenue and employment opportunities which the New Jersey Legislature has shown no inclination to provide.

The cost of escaping from reality can be very high for anyone, and, at present interest rates, if we borrow a billion dollars now, we and our children will have to pay back not just one billion but as much as two and a half or even three billion.

We don't seem to feel guilty any more about saddling our children with huge debts. But it's not just the money we'll be saddling them with, if we approve this expensive bond issue. It's the unsolved social and economic problems which we are refusing to face in our own time, and which no bond issue can solve at any time.

Information, Please.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Will you please pass the following request to the Information Department of the Loop Bus Line, for which service I give you my thanks in advance.

This is my request: I should like to be given instructions how I may visit my best friend in Princeton by the Loop Bus Line. She is Miss Helen Woodruff, of 81 Cleveland Lane. Due to my age (early 80s), I no longer drive cars, and taking a taxi for a visit is terribly expensive.

The same is true when I wish to attend any of the social events given at the University Library, especially those in the evening.

My house is located diagonally across from Bamberger's parking lot.

Consolidation Opposed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a long time resident of Princeton Borough, I have often asked myself why political leaders have failed to speak candidly about consolidation of the two Princetons.

At long last we have a candidate for mayor who has clearly told us where she stands. Jan Schneier's opposition to consolidation at this time is a welcome attempt to keep personal government for Borough citizens. While our present mayor has tried to sell consolidation on purely money terms, Jan has pointed out the unsettled financial questions and has shown her sensitivity to the feelings of our residents.

I urge my fellow citizens to support Jan Schneier for mayor and her Democratic team for council. The people

Omitted on Voter Sheets
To the Editor of Town Topics

The League of Women Voters of the Princeton Area regrets that in its Nonpartisan Election Information Sheets recently mailed to all residents, it was stated erroneously that there was no Democratic candidate for Princeton Township Tax Collector. Kelvin Werth is running for that office on the Democratic ticket, and his biography follows:

Kelvin Werth, Democrat: 204 Bertrand Drive. Education and Experience: Graduated from Princeton High School; Engineering student at Princeton University; Played in the Princeton Adult Basketball League; Worked at E.S.B. Technology Center as a laboratory technician; Carried out research on the Newark transportation system for the Princeton University Engineering School; Campaigned actively in local elections and maintains a keen interest in the Princeton community.

We apologize to Mr. Werth for our error, as well as to the voting public whom we serve.

Misrepresentation Alleged.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Voters in Princeton are naturally much concerned with the knowledge and experience the candidates for office have acquired. To this end the newspaper ads contribute. However, a false impression is given when the facts are misrepresented. Since I served as liaison from Township Committee to the Board of Health in 1972 and 1973 I am particularly aware that two of the three items cited in the campaign ad for Barbara Lependorf last week did not occur "during her tenure as Vice-chairperson of the Township Board of Health." As a matter of fact she was not even a member of the Board when the cited discussions and action took place.

The amendments to the Township Housing Code regarding agents for absentee landlords and inspection of wells and septic systems when a house is sold were affirmed at the Board of Health meeting of December 13, 1973 and passed on to Township Committee for public hearing and action. Mrs. Lependorf, a new appointee to the Board, attended her first meeting on January 3, 1974. Without any further official action from the Board of Health, the Township Committee incorporated the amendments to the Housing Code in April, 1974. Mrs. Lependorf was named as temporary vice-chairman of the Board on June 6, 1974.

We all want to know the abilities of candidates for office. The supporting data should not be incorrectly stated or inferred.

Loop Road Issue Reviewed
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The question of the Loop Road is anything but dead. Despite strong opposition by Township residents late in 1974, three sections of the Loop Road were incorporated in the 1975-1980 capital budget passed by the Township Committee.

For 1977, the following amounts have been allocated: $80,000 for Snowden Lane to Bertrand Drive; $141,000 for Concord Lane to River Road at Route 27; $230,000 for Winfield Road to Johnson Park School.

Besides these allocations, other amounts have been designated for construction of "minor collector" roads in 1978: $127,000 for Mt. Lucas Road to Bunn Drive; $276,000 for Bunn Drive to Terhune Road-Van Dyke Road.

Opponents of the Loop Road have been reassured by members of the Township Committee that no action will be taken on segments of the Loop before completion of a new Master Plan by the Regional Planning Board.

However, we have reason to be skeptical since we have been given to understand that the 1975-1980 capital budget was released only after a great deal of discussion and planning for the future.

On January 7, the Regional Planning Board voted on the 1975 projects as proposed by the Township Committee. The original 1975 budget included construction of the Snowden Lane-Bertrand Drive "missing link."

After listening to objections of residents who would be affected by such construction, the Planning Board voted 6-3 with 2 abstentions against the recommendation of the Township Committee for the construction of this "missing link."

The three Board members who voted against the motion (and thus favored construction of the Snowden Lane-Bertrand Drive segment of the Loop Road) were Mayor Cawley, Township Committeeman Moffat and William Walker.

Several weeks ago, the position of Committeeman Moffat came under attack when he stated publicly that he still favored building the Snowden Lane-Bertrand Drive section. Not surprisingly, residents who had opposed its construction in January let it be known that they objected to Committeeman Moffat's point of view.

As a consequence, Committeeman Moffat suggested a meeting with a group of Township residents and a meeting was held on October 19 (I was among those who attended the meeting). A few days afterwards, he issued a statement reversing his previous position.

In his statement, he asserted: "I oppose and if need be would vote against any proposal to construct any section of Terhune Road until a new regional circulation master plan is adopted..."

All other candidates have serious reservations about the Loop Road as indicated in statements made to the local press from which the following quotes are taken.

Republican candidate Josie Hall is "not convinced the Loop Road concept is a good one." Democratic candidate Barbara Lependorf is "strongly opposed" to the Loop. Republican candidate Tod Peyton says he "worries that a Loop would make people use Princeton simply as a 'pass-through.'"

The issue is not just the fate of the Loop Road as proposed in the 1968 Master Plan for Princeton Township. Each of us must decide before November 4 which candidates are best qualified to deal with the scores of problems that will stem from the eventual lifting of the sewer moratorium which will greatly accelerate development in the Township. At least do one thing—vote!

Be Sure to Vote Tuesday.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In these solemn times there is something to be glad about—there are some candidates of high caliber in the Borough and the Township; also in Mercer County.

Mayor Robert Cawley has a long, fine record in business and in the office of Mayor and his qualifications as an engineer are invaluable.

Richard Woodbridge and John Bleimaier would be welcome members to The Borough Council, due to their outstanding educational qualifications and experience.

Josephine Hall and Theodore Peyton are enormously talented and dedicated to public service.

Lawrence Patterson is uniquely equipped to be tax collector in the Borough, with many years in the office. He is unopposed!

The new office of Mercer County Executive is of utmost importance, as one third of our tax money goes to the county. Harry Sayen has the "Know How" and the dedication to serve with honor and integrity.

The bond issue should be carefully understood.

Anyone who fails to vote in this important election should surely have a guilty conscience.

Integrity and Common Sense.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

This election year is especially important for Mercer County because for the first time a county executive is to be elected. And equally important will be the makeup of the county Freeholder board.

Mercer County voters have a real opportunity to elect an intelligent, honest and dedicated Freeholder—Rita Strmensky. Rita has also a quality too rare in government—plain common sense. She has proved this as East Windsor's first councilwoman and will bring all this to the solution of Mercer County's problems.

The Mercer County board of Freeholders has been 100 per cent Democrat for several years. Our American government is based on a two-party system, which guaranteed representation of more than one political view. We need a representative, a woman of integrity and common sense—Rita Strmensky.

The Art Museum's Role.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I read with interest the review of the current exhibition of recent American drawings in the Art Museum (TOWN TOPICS, Oct. 23.) It seems proper to point out the following facts about the Museum's role in education.

Professor Marilyn McCully of the Department of Art History and Archaeology, whose specialty is twentieth century art, has already given three gallery talks on the drawings. These talks were announced to the public in advance and were well-attended.

There is a thorough and complete catalog of the collection available at the desk for perusal or purchase. In addition, the Museum

ACQUISITION PLANNED

For Applied Research, EG&G, Inc. and Princeton Applied Research Corporation have announced that an agreement in principle has been reached concerning EG&G's proposal to acquire PARC, a manufacturer of specialized electronic instruments and systems for a variety of testing, measurement, research and analytical applications.

The agreement, as described by EG&G President Bernard J. O'Keeffe and Emil W. Lehmann, President of PARC, would involve the exchange of .55 shares of EG&G common stock for each share of PARC common issued and outstanding at the closing. Approximately 500,000 EG&G shares will be required in the transaction.

The proposed acquisition is subject to approval by the directors of both companies and the shareholders of PARC; to the execution of a formal merger agreement; and to receipt of an indication from the United States Department of Justice that it has no present intention to object to the consummation of the transaction.

PARC, which employs 250 people, produces approximately 70 instruments among its three New Jersey-based Divisions. These operating elements include the Scientific Instrument Division, producing instruments used in research to detect and analyze obscure electrical and optical signals; the Analytical Instrument Division, producing instruments used in both research and industrial analytical applications such as monitoring of heavy metals in environmental samples and foodstuffs, and purity assays of pharmaceuticals; and the Electro-Optical Instrument Division, specializing in multichannel analysis instruments for light detection and the recording of optical spectroscopic data.

At the close of calendar year 1974, PARC's consolidated sales totalled $9,217,000 with net income of $609,000; and EG&G's consolidated sales totalled $162,949,000 with net income of $5,716,000. EG&G common is listed for trading on the New York Stock Exchange; PARC trades over the counter. Its range a week ago was 3¼ to 4 and it closed Monday at 6 bid, 8 asked.

LAST JUNE, KELVIN WERTH, 20-YEAR OLD PRINCETON UNIVERSITY STUDENT AND LONG TIME TOWNSHIP RESIDENT, WON THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR TAX COLLECTOR BY A 2 TO 1 LANDSLIDE MAJORITY.

But you wouldn't know it from the campaign wordage!

- Republican ads and fliers claim their own candidate is unopposed. Not true!
- The League of Women Voters mails a list of candidates to all Princetonians, omits his name and refuses to send out a corrected mailing because "its too expensive."
- The Democratic organization won't move a finger to support him and hasn't printed one word about his candidacy.

WE ASK OUR YOUNG PEOPLE TO WORK THROUGH THE SYSTEM. And when one of them tries it and succeeds, the establishment gives him the cold shoulder. No wonder young people are turned off. NEXT TUESDAY, SHOW THEM THE SYSTEM CAN WORK. CAST YOUR VOTE FOR KELVIN WERTH.

Re-elect Bob Cawley
To the Editor, Town Topics:

Whom should your mayor serve? Bob Cawley has for the last six years done a really good job for all this community. Living on the Eastern side of town, a working person, I have had a chance to observe the qualities of a responsible mayor. I think he deserves re-election to continue a superior job!

Arthur Sypek Endorsed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

News coverage of the campaign for Mercer County Executive has failed so far to give adequate attention to some aspects of Art Sypek's candidacy which many voters will consider of critical importance. I am referring to his experience and his commitment to open and responsive government. Art Sypek served a total of nine years, eight of them consecutively from 1968 to the present, as Freeholder Director, as close as you could have come in a single position to running County government. His expertise as a Freeholder, a combined total of seven years in finance and transportation, is particularly relevant to our future needs, as we experience shrinking public finances and an increasingly severe energy crisis.

It is not merely the extent of Art Sypek's experience which deserves emphasis. In all his years of service as a Freeholder, despite scandals at every level of government, Art Sypek remained free of the slightest taint of corruption.

The same qualities and perceptions that enabled Art Sypek to avoid corruption have also led him to make concrete commitments to a program which will make County government more open and responsive; and administrative code, an ombudsman, a code of ethics, and the holding of open public meetings.

These aspects of Art Sypek's candidacy may not qualify as "news" but I believe that most voters will feel that they constitute important information which they will take account of when they go to the polls on November 4, 1975.

EARNINGS DECLINE

Sales At Systemedics Advance. William P. Krause, president of Systemedics, Inc. of Princeton Air Research Park, Route 206, has released figures for the nine months ending September 30 which show a 10 percent increase in sales and a 75 percent decrease in profits in comparison to the nine months of the previous year.

Sales amounted to $3,333,924 as compared to $3,030,822 as of a year ago, with a net income of $84,130 this year as against $232,560 last September 30. This amounted to 8 cents per share net income this year, down from 20 cents at the end of the third quarter last year.

Mr. Krause expects a slightly improved rate of profits in the fourth quarter but notes that significant improvement will not occur until into 1976 when the company completes its program of bringing to the national market its standardized GMS Medical Information System.

$1 Million to Princeton

Princeton University has reported a major advance toward the goal of its $125 Million Development Program with a $1 million gift from an anonymous alumnus.

The purpose of the gift will be determined in consultation with the donor. President William G. Bowen termed it a "splendid act of generosity, which is especially valuable at this time of severe economic stress."

Princeton's $125 Million Development Program is seeking to provide a major reinforcement of the whole university -- undergraduate and graduate education, and the arts and humanities as well as science and engineering. To date, more than $97 million has been raised -- principally from individuals, foundations and corporations.

SENATOR'S WIFE DUE

Mrs. McGovern was born and raised on a farm in South Dakota. Concerns of nutrition and health have long been of special interest to her, and she recently attended the World Food Conference in Rome with her husband.

Other interests include research and education in drug abuse and juvenile delinquency. She is a member of the Board of Directors of the Psychiatric Institute Foundation, which conducts such research, and of Odyssey House, which has drug rehabilitation centers in New York, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Utah. Mrs. McGovern has been a regular volunteer in family education at the Parent-Child Care Center in Washington, D.C., a pilot program of infant-parent education, day care and home visitation.

Immediately following the service there will be luncheon and opportunity for discussion with Mrs. McGovern. In keeping with the spirit of the occasion, the lunch will be soup, homemade bread and apples.

$24,900 buys more at Avon Village than anywhere else in New Jersey.

Over 100 families have already chosen Avon Village at Twin Rivers over every other community in New Jersey for one reason: value. From the smallest detail to the overall picture, Avon Village really does give you much, much more.

More house. The garden homes are beautifully designed — bright, spacious, tasteful and private. Materials and construction are noticeably superior to what you're used to seeing these days. Every home includes:

- Excellent closets
- Laundry closets with GE washer and dryer
- Deluxe GE refrigerator, oven/range with hood, dishwasher
- Central air conditioning
- Wall-to-wall carpeting, choice of colors
- Private patio or terrace
- Ceramic tile baths

Better recreational facilities. There are four swim and tennis clubs at Twin Rivers, ballfields — even a private clubhouse where you can entertain yourself and your friends.

Incredible convenience. Everything's at your doorstep and your fingertips. Two elementary schools and medical and dental facilities right at Twin Rivers. A large shopping village with supermarket, library, shops, banks. Excellent restaurants.

Terrific commuting. Instead of killing yourself every day bucking traffic on Route 9 or the Garden State Parkway, you'll be rolling along the traffic-free New Jersey Turnpike. And, if you commute to N.Y.C., buses leave regularly from Twin Rivers for a smooth 65-minute express ride to Port Authority.

Home ownership and tax benefits. You also get all the financial advantages of home ownership plus total freedom from exterior maintenance of your condominum home and grounds. You'll also save 5% of purchase price as a credit against your 1975 Federal Income Tax.

You get all this plus Twin Rivers, the magnificent new prestige community everyone's raving about. You can't afford not to see what Avon Village offers in solid housing value at the area's lowest prices.

Cawley Says Democrats Have Polarized Borough; Schneier Cites Poor Leadership by Republicans

The quiet Borough election campaign grew a little louder this week as Republican incumbent mayor Robert W. Cawley charged his Democratic opponent, Jan Schneier, with "changing her position on the only major issue she raised in the campaign." That's consolidation with the Township.

"Mrs. Schneier brought up the issue when she made her statement opposing it," Mr. Cawley said in a statement. "Then, at the League of Women Voters candidates debate, she backed down."

"At the meeting," he said, in amplification, "she was asked why she opposed consolidation. She said consolidation should be studied, and that she'd like to look at the studies and see what they produced. So it's not THAT black and white, that she's opposed and I'm in favor. Also, when asked why, she said because so many citizens oppose it. And this makes me raise the question of leadership."

Mr. Cawley also repeated the Republicans claim that Democrats have deliberately misled voters about the percentage of local tax increase.

"The Democratic claim in their brochure to have kept the '75 local purpose tax increase down to 1 percent is simply not true: when the separately-billed sewer rental charge is added in, it is clear that taxes have increased by as much as 12 percent."

"Polarization Charged." "The climate I see now is one of 'anything to win'," he added, "and it goes back to last January, when I was pushed into dropping Norm Williams from the Zoning Board and naming Michael Rockland.

"I have never encountered this divisiveness in previous campaigns," Mr. Cawley said. "Polarizing the community is an unfortunate tactic."

Mrs. Schneier does see the developing campaign as a partisan one, and she regards this with favor.

"It's a very exciting campaign, with so many people working for us!" she exclaims. "They are Democrats and they are interested in the fortunes of the Democratic party in local elections. The differences between me and Bob Cawley that I see are our different views on consolidation, and the fact that it's harder for a Republican to lead a Democratic Council.

"As a Democratic mayor, I could make Council a more effective body, and by that, I mean I'd like to see the kind of political climate that would make more citizens feel they had some effect on government. I don't mean Bob Cawley has been bad— he just hasn't been good enough. A lot of citizens feel remote from government. Also, I can spend more time in Borough Hall— people could stop in and see me."

REPUBLICAN MAYOR: Robert W. Cawley is running for re-election to the Borough's top job.

DEMOCRATIC MAYOR: Jan Schneier hopes to unseat Princeton's Republican mayor.

Mr. Cawley says the real issue of the campaign isn't how candidates differ—— "there isn't that much difference on issues."

"The issue is what the candidate can deliver. Situations and dynamics are so unexpected! What's around the corner? Another student demonstration? It's the ability of a candidate to do the job, and that's what I'm emphasizing: what I've accomplished in my two terms in office."

Housing a Vital Issue. The mayor sees housing as the most crucial of the concrete issues. He'd like to see the Borough's PCH-style lower and middle-income development on the Park Place parking yard. "Our need is for one-bedrooms and efficiencies," he says, adding that he is "definitely in favor" of the housing and water pollution bond issues, and "fully behind" the basic concepts of the Planning Board's housing program.

"We can't just build one more PCH-style or Yedlin project and say 'OK, Mt. Laurel, we're through'". Mr. Cawley is referring the recent court decision prohibiting zoning that would keep out lower-income families.

Both candidates are concerned about neighborhoods: Jugtown, North Tulane, Jefferson Road, the Quarry. Both are uneasy about the way big old houses have been taken over by many unrelated tenants living as "a family." Mr. Cawley thinks it tends to destroy neighborhood feeling. Mrs. Schneier would like to discuss the matter with University officials, since many of the tenants are students.

Mr. Cawley also emphasizes the plight of the senior citizen.

"Tax exemption for senior citizens has to be liberalized even more than recent proposals," he believes, "Maybe we could develop a sliding scale of relief. It's really a crucial problem."

He also has parking garages on his agenda and, if elected, hopes to assemble ideas on where to get capital funds— perhaps by enlisting the financial help of businesses who would benefit from such a garage.

Four Critical Years. "I see the next four years as extremely critical ones," he says. "Adverse decisions at both the state and Federal level— it's going to take a heck of a lot of effort, and I can't promise success in every case. How we handle the pressures on the local budget and the tax base will take skill.

"It's important to push the idea of ONE community—and I don't mean a consolidated Princeton, I mean the various ideas and interests in the Borough itself," Mr. Cawley says.

"The strength of the community isn't in its 'one-ness'," is Mrs. Schneier's view, "but in the way disagreements are handled. Discover the problems and discuss them. Only after differences are exposed, can the political process solve them by compromise."

Flanking the mayor at the Council table are the members of Council. One of them—Democrat Barbara Sigmund—is running for a second term, joined by Gus Escher who is seeking his first term. Their opponents are Republicans John Bleimeier and Richard Woodbridge.

A few weeks ago, former Democratic Borough Council member Joseph Redding announced publicly his support of Republican Bleimeier. But last week, the Dental health in our country is such a tremendous problem that most dentists say that water fluoridation is the only solution. Water fluoridation is effective–it can produce a 65 per cent reduction in tooth decay. Fluoridation is also safe, and economical. For an average of ten cents per person per year, a community can benefit from this public health measure. Fluoridation is easily applied and controlled. It also has the overwhelming support of qualified professional health workers and other groups interested in the health and welfare of our people.

CABARET TIME! Place: the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn: cast (in this particular picture, anyway) Laird White, Roo Brown, Liz Fillo and, in front, Jeff Ferguson. They're in the "Singin' in the Rain" number which was performed at last Friday's Cabaret. These and other artists are on stage twice each Friday at the Nass.

News Of The THEATRES

RELAX, ENJOY IT...
Inn Cabaret a Place To Go.

Some laughs, some chuckles, an easy drink in your hand, a party of friends, new songs you'd like to hear again, old songs you haven't heard for a long time.

Is there a better way to end the week and begin the weekend?

It's the Inn Cabaret in the Prince William Room of the Nass (the Nassau Inn), each Friday at 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. (but not this Friday, October 31). Lasts about an hour. Have dinner at a restaurant or at home, drop in for the early show; eat a leisurely meal if you've gotten home late, and come by for the late show.

"We keep about half of each Cabaret comedy," explains Dan Berkowitz, Master of Ceremonies, a Founding Father of the Cabaret and Poet Laureate of the Great Works of Literature Series.

The Series, which you'll recall from last summer's performances, is the stern and rockbound cornerstone of the Cabaret. Will you ever forget Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's "Hiawatha" sung to the Marine Hymn?" "By the shores of Gitchee Goo----ooo----mee...."

Wide Variety. For the rest, there are sketches, serious songs, witty choreography.

"Maybe we'll do 'Night and Day' or 'On a Clear Day'—Liz Fillo has done both of these for us," says MC Berkowitz. "We want a balance of songs people know and new songs. So often in a cabaret or night club, you'll get only the new songs. Well, people like the oldies, too."

Inn Cabaret opens with a big number and closes with a big number. During the 10-minute intermission, you can turn to the bar right there in the room, and re-fill.

"Of course, the bar is there all the time," Mr. Berkowitz says, "and if you think the show is boring you can always get up and get a drink. But our experience has been that people are quiet and attentive during the show. In the New York night clubs, where you go mostly to eat and drink, people chatter and don't really pay attention to the performers. Here, they do."

The performance may well be Georgine Hall Freedman as "The Plant Lady," crooning to a chorus of philodendron or Roo Brown with Georgine, the pair of them as a couple of Senior Citizens with ear trumpets: "Do I Hear a Waltz?" "Nope, can't say as I do—where's the beat?"

Nat Hartshorne wrote the sketch—among others he's done—about the good old days when they'd let you listen to records in music stores. There was the sad day they closed the booth down, and since you can't hear the record, to see whether you'd like to buy, the helpful record lady—Cynthia Gooding—sings to you in her most cultured, opera-singer voice, "Flat-foot Floogie."

No Time For Sex. In another sketch, a man and woman who'd like to have an affair but are so busy they can't seem to get around to it, sing a song, "Call Me.....Surreptitiously." In the end, they decide that in the interests of time, they'll just be friends.

Reid White is the author of that sketch.

How about "Tomorrow, and tomorrow and tomorrow," from that wonderful oldie, "Macbeth?" Harrison Worcester wrote this to "At the Hop." That line about the poor player who struts and frets his hour on the stage is always good for a laugh.

A Berkowitz Great Works of Literature set Hamlet's "To be or not to be" to the music of "76 Trombones," .....and we actually had a live trombone!" the author remembers with pleasure. That was back in the summer.

He likes to recall Joan Morton Lucas' choreography in which "The Raven" is done to a turn with music from "Oklahoma!", and Mimi, Anne and Linda Danly's parody of The Andrews Sisters....

Well, you get the idea. Don Boroson, not so late of Triangle Club, is the piano and Steve Fillo is bass or electric bass.

You should make reservations by calling 924-6300. You have to call Wednesday or Thursday but you can call any hour of either day.

On the other hand, if you decide late to go, there are almost always some seats left, so stop buy and see.

You can bring anybody, even the kids, Mr. Berkowitz says. No, it isn't Disneyland, but it isn't hard-core either.

"Fun and a little sophisticated, nothing to embarrass anybody."

Now that we've explained all this—there won't be any Cabaret this Friday. The Prince William Room was booked months ago by some group pondering Great Issues of our Time. Mr. Berkowitz will be in the back row, taking notes for the November 7 show.

'MURMUR OF THE HEART'

With Two Showings. Louis Malle's "Murmur of the Heart," which follows an adolescent French boy in his awakening sexuality, will be shown at McCarter next Tuesday at 7 and 9:15 p.m.

The 1971 film takes place in 1954. A young French boy, son of a gynecologist and his Italian wife, goes with his mother to a health spa to recover from a heart murmur. After a riotous party, he and his mother sleep together, an act described by critics of the film as "an expression of caring between people," rather than sensationalism. In a broader sense, the film is about growing up in the years of the '50s in France.

DANCE FAIR

Children, Adults. Parents, teachers and children are invited to a morning workshop called a "Children's Dance Fair" to be held Saturday, November 8, from 10 a.m. to 12:30 under the auspices of The Dance Co-op.

The Fair will be in the Co-op's studio in the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church. Children from four to ten years of age are invited to participate. There will be demonstration classes for different age groups, and talks with the children's faculty of the Co-op. Classes for four and five-year-olds will start at 10, for six and seven-year-olds at 10:45 and for eight through tens at 11:30.

There is no fee, but participants are asked to donate 50 cents. The studio is reached through the Parish House entrance of the church on Quarry Street. Additional information may be obtained by calling Peggy Stack at 882-1412.

RAITT-PRINE

In Concert. Bonnie Raitt, one of the First Ladies of pop music, and singer-songwriter John Prine will play Dillon Gym on Friday, November 14, (8 p.m.) under the sponsorship of McCarter Theatre, where tickets are now on sale.

Bonnie, who belongs to the family of Broadway star John Raitt ("Carousel"), picked up a guitar for the first time when she was 12, and immediately began to put together a country blues style. As a Radcliffe student, she became known in Cambridge in 1967 when such clubs as the "Club 47" on Harvard Square began to feature folk and blues singers. After a few years, she left her job with the American Friends Service Committee, and turned to the concert stage.

PERFORMANCE ADDED

For Janis Ian. An 11 p.m. show has been pencilled in for singer-song-writer Janis Ian when she comes to McCarter Saturday, December 6. Her 8 p.m. show has been sold out. With her, in both concerts, will be her special guest "Breakfast Special," which will Janis Ian, a teenage prodigy about ten years ago (remember "Society's Child?") came back into prominence this fall with "At Seventeen," a best-selling disc for several weeks. She is both author and performer on that record.

COMEDY SCHEDULED

By Lawrenceville School. Periwig, Lawrenceville School's drama club, will present "Once in a Lifetime" as its fall production Friday and Saturday, November 7 and 8, at 8:30 in the Kirby Arts Center.

Written by Moss Hart and George Kaufman the play, is a comedy about three vaudeville actors who head for Hollywood to join the new "talkies" and to open a school of elocution for the "silent" stars. Their adventures have delighted audiences since the play was first produced in 1930.

Tryouts and rehearsals are now being held under the supervision of Peter Candler, Periwig Director. Free tickets may be obtained at the Jigger Shop in Lawrenceville.

"OLIVER" TO BE SHOWN

On School Holiday. The Princeton Chapter of Hadassah has planned a showing of the film "Oliver" at the Playhouse on Palmer Square, Thursday, November 13, a public school holiday to enable teachers to attend the New Jersey State Teachers' Convention. There will be one showing at 10 a.m. and admission is $1.

Proceeds will go to the Hadassah Israel Education Services, whose programs train youth toward productive careers. The two major installations are Hadassah Comprehensive High School and Community College and the Hadassah Vocational Institute, both in Jerusalem.

Tickets for "Oliver" may be purchased in advance at Hulit's, Hinkson's, Robert's Shoes, Lucar Hardware, Windsor Toy and Hobby Shop or at the door on the day of the performance. Mrs. Adrienne Friedman and Mrs. Suzanne Bokar have arranged the event.

FOR ALL AGES

"Golliwhoppers" in Rehearsal. Rehearsals are under way for Creative Theatre Unlimited's Performance Troupe's production of "Golliwhoppers", a play for children of all ages. "Golliwhoppers" is a collection of American folktales which includes music, mime, improvisation and audience participation.

Amie Brockway will direct. Members of the cast include Judy Bigelsen, Betsy English, Pamela Hoffman, DiAnna Mulea and Bob Price.

"Golliwhoppers" will be available to tour schools and community organizations in November and December. The C.T.U. Performance Troupe is funded by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts in Cooperation with the National Endowment for the Arts.

New Director Sought

Deborah Bellow has been the director of Street Theatre for the past three summers. This fall, she resigned, saying she felt it was "time for a change". The new director will be chosen jointly by Miss Bellow and Street Theatre members.

Applications are being accepted. The new director will be expected to arrange and lead workshops, organize summer productions, manage the budget, appoint the rest of next summer's staff and lead meetings. All applicants should contact Deborah Bellow to discuss the position and possibly to arrange a meeting when they can discuss with Street Theatre's members the future of the group, and their own experience.

Interested individuals should contact Deborah Bellow, 36 Stanley Avenue, (921-8826).

PRINCE

Charlotte. Another soft-core look at kinky sex among the decadent French upper class--aimed at duplicating "Emmanuelle's" success but unlikely to match the latter at the box office. Roger Vadim produced, wrote, directed and stars in this self-conscious, sordid tale of an intellectual writer investigating the bizarre murder of a teenage nymphomaniac.

Charlotte emerges as an unintentional parody of the pseudo-intellectual art film, made contemporary only by the extensive nudity and varied sexual simulations. Pretending to a sensuality it never attains, the film fails to back up its surface outrageousness with a single moment of genuine eroticism. A bummer.

Vermeer Quartet "Alarmingly Short of Expectation"

The performance of the Vermeer String Quartet on Monday at McCarter Theatre was neither profound nor provocative. The wide diversity of the program, which included works by Mozart, Ginastera and Schumann, should have provided this group with a large palette from which to work. However, numerous problems plagued it from start to finish.

The string quartet is a transparent medium and as such depends on four instrumentalists of equal ability. Granted the parts may not always be of equal technical difficulty. Nonetheless, to bring any piece off, the interlocking of parts, the necessities of ensemble, and the musical decisions to be made require that all parties participate fully.

Usually the first violinist is the leader of the ensemble, thereby assuming the function that the conductor has in a larger group. It was thus even more disappointing that first violinist Schmuel Ashkenasi had a brittle, glassy tone whose cracks reminded one of a bad singer on an off day.

The fullness and strength of violist Nobuko Imai's tone threw the weakness of the first violinist into still bolder relief. This quartet actually reverses the norm where the first violinist may steal the show while the violist is relegated to a secondary position.

Although the disparity among the instrumentalists clouded the performance of all three works, the character of each demanded and was given very different shaping. The first piece, Mozart's "Quartet in C Major, K. 465," also known as the "Dissonant Quartet," sneaks from a restrained opening which hovers around A-flat major to its tonic of C major. This journey is accomplished via a delicate and dignified opening.

The first section came off well. However, the rest of the work, especially the first and last movements, require clear, light articulation. Such articulation was rarely in evidence. It was clear that the members of the quartet had carefully worked out their phrasing and dynamics, but only on the most superficial level. This work is one which deserves much better.

MUSIC In Princeton

Ginastera's "Quartet No. 2" was the highlight of the evening as far as performance was concerned. This work is especially well written for string quartet. The flashy outer movements, with their torrential rhythms and whirling tempi flank three inner movements.

The central one, "Presto Magico," presents a variety of string timbres worthy of a Merlin. Often such attempts degenerate into trite catalogues of sound. Such was not the case here.

All five movements of the Ginastera quartet are thematically interwoven. At a certain point one can not help wondering whether the musical material is recycled to a point where its durability is in question. However, the high energy level and sparkle of the piece tend to overshadow such questions

The performance of the Ginastera, though not without its problems, was by far the most engaging of the evening. There was a greater degree of subtlety in the ensemble and in the preparation of the piece as a whole. Where the performance of the Mozart was at best neutral, this one had bright spurts of color. The quartet also seemed more involved in projecting this piece than either of the others.

Schumann's "Quartet in A minor, Op. 41, No. 1" closed the program. The first violinist dived into his opening solo at a tempo which made up in speed what it lacked in character. The same lack of articulation that marred the Mozart was again a problem. The second and fourth movements, with their light, quick harmonies worked better. Still, the runs were sloppy and the lack of clear articulation obscured the outlines of the piece.

The lack of definition also detracted from the contrasting characters of the piece since they had a leveling effect on the volatile moods and tempo changes. The ending of the performance did not help either, as there was an indecisiveness which bespoke a lack of energy, confidence, or both.

Although there were some passages of interest, the Vermeer Quartet fell alarmingly short of expectation.

"Festival of American Music" Will Be Offered As Choir College's First Subscription Series

Westminster Choir College has announced a special subscription series—the first in its history—entitled "A Festival of American Music."

President Ray E. Robinson commented: "For a number of years, Westminster has provided a special series of artists' events to the Princeton community, free of charge. We thought it would be highly appropriate to celebrate the Bicentennial and our own 50th anniversary with a series offering a vast range of music by American composers, performed by the Choirs and faculty of Westminster Choir College." The series will consist of six Tuesday evenings of choral music and four Monday evenings of organ music.

The ten events will cover a broad spectrum of American music, performed by four choral ensembles at the College: the Westminster Choir, the Chamber Singers, the Oratorio Choir, and the Chapel Choir. The first concert, on November 11, will feature a work commissioned by the United States Centennial Commission in 1876—"Meditation of Columbia" by Dudley Buck, and a number of other shorter works by 18th and 19th century composers.

The two programs on December 9 and February 17 will both feature music of New England composers. The first will include excerpts from Charles Ives' "Celestial Country" and the complete "Psalm and Prayer of David" by Walter Piston, in performance by the Chamber Singers and the Chapel Choir. The Oratorio Choir will offer with Horatio Parker's Hora Novissima and Randall Thompson's The Peaceable Kingdom.

The Westminster Choir will premiere a new work by composer Henry Brant, commissioned in celebration of the College's anniversary, and feature other 20th century works such as Aaron Copland's "The Lark," Irving Fine's "Hour Glass Suite," and Virgil Thomson's "The Nativity as Sung by the Shepherds."

Princeton composers will be heard on the April 20 program when the Chamber Singers and the Westminster Choir will perform "Four Canons" of Milton Babbit, "Mass for Unison Voices" by Roger Sessions, and works of Edward Cone and Claudio Spies. The final concert on May 11 will spotlight composers who have studied or taught at Westminster, including Roy Harris, Normand Lockwood, Warren Martin and Alice Parker.

The organ portion of the series will include three concerts and one lecture, beginning with a February 9 program featuring William Bolcom's Black Host, performed by organist Robert Carwithen. George Markey and Eugene Roan will also play works on the program.

On March 8, Donald McDonald and Eugene Roan will play a program featuring music of Charles Ives, Vincent Persichetti, and including "Symphony" by Leo Sowerby. Joan Lippincott and James Litton are paired for the April 5 program, and their selections are by William Albright, Samuel Barber, Richard Feliciano, and Daniel Pinkham. The April 12 event is a lecture by Barbara Owen, entitled "The American Organ."

The subscription series is available to a limited audience of 300. The price for the full ten concert series will be $20 per person; the choral series by itself will cost $15, the organ series $7.50, and single event tickets may be purchased at $3. Tickets and further information may be obtained from Westminster Choir College, 921-7100 or 921-3202.

"STRANGE FIGURE:" An allegorical painting by Tobias Musicant is part of an exhibit of his work and that of Alice Musicant at the Loft Gallery.

ART In Princeton

TWO PAINTERS ON VIEW

At Loft Gallery. An exhibit of paintings by Alice Musicant and Tobias Musicant is one view at the Loft Gallery, 306 Alexander Street, through November 19.

The Musicants live and work in Irvington. Alice Musicant paints with gentle tones and a moody expression. She says she tries for "a calmness, a floating stillness" in her paintings, and like the Chinese and Japanese, tries to convey more than just a transient feeling.

Tobias Musicant, in contrast, paints meticulous allegorical works. He feels that "a painter's vision should be so intense that it almost verges on the demonic. But it should also have control." The exhibit may be viewed Tuesday through Saturday from 9 to 5.

EXHIBIT TO OPEN

At Art Museum Tuesday. "To All Believers: The Art of Pamela Colman Smith" will open at The University Art Museum, on Tuesday and continue through December 7.

The exhibition chronicles the life and art of Pamela Colman Smith, an exceptionally imaginative painter and illustrator of the early 20th century. About 60 paintings, prints, drawings and published illustrations by Miss Smith will be on view.

Miss Smith was a member of the Stieglitz circle, a group of avant-garde artists associated with the art patron and photographer, Alfred Stieglitz. She was the first non-photographic artist to have work shown by Stieglitz at his famed New York gallery at 291 Fifth Avenue. Her "291" show in 1907, marking Miss Smith's debut, was an overwhelming success. Critics compared her with such artists as Munch, Redon, Ensor, Beardsley and Blake.

Born in 1877 or 1878 in the United States, Miss Smith after her successful "291" show was prominent in the American and British art world of the early 1900s, when she produced paintings and drawings that foreshadowed Surrealist art and revealed her rich subconscious fantasy world. However, after 1920 the artist mysteriously disappeared and did not exhibit any more. As a result, the early contributions of Pamela Colman Smith have been until now almost completely overlooked.

Dealing with the Occult. Miss Smith is perhaps most widely known today as the artist who, in 1909, assisted occult scholar Arthur Edward Waite in his development of a new tarot fortune-telling card deck. Her artistic contributions to the mystical qualities of the deck, some even unnoticed by Waite himself, are regarded as extraordinary by scholars of the occult. The Waite deck is one of the most widely used tarot decks today.

Miss Smith's associates in the 1900s included William Butler Yeats, Jack Yeats, Gordon and Edith Craig, Ellen Terry, Bernard Shaw, and Walter Crane, among others. She collaborated with several of them in theatrical productions and in the illustration and publication of little magazines.

Art in Princeton

These deep friendships with many of the artists of the Celtic Revival stimulated her interest in the occult and her intense involvement in mysticism and helped to foster her visionary synaesthetic abilities. (Synaesthesis is a phenomenon in which one type of stimulation evokes a sensation of another, such as the hearing of a sound resulting in the sensation of the visualization of a color.)

Miss Smith was one of the earliest artists to incorporate direct visual interpretations of specific musical compositions into her paintings. According to Melinda Boyd Parsons, who wrote the exhibition catalogue, works by Pamela Colman Smith were "not conscious symbolic translations of musical themes, but spontaneous visionary representations of the same emotions which had inspired the composers."

Loans for the exhibition have come from the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, the Whitney Museum of American Art, the International Museum of Photography at the George Eastman House, the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, the Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Beinecke Rare Book and Manuscript Library at Yale University, Princeton University's Library, and private collectors.

The exhibition, which was shown this fall at the Delaware Art Museum, is cosponsored by the University of Delaware and the Delaware Art Museum, in association with the Delaware chapter of the Victorian Society in America. The illustrated exhibition catalogue will be available at the museum for $4.50.

The Art Museum is open Tuesdays through Saturdays from 10 to 4; Sundays from 1 to 5. The museum is closed Mondays and major holidays.

PHOTOGRAPHS ON VIEW

Work of 2 Princetonians. Recent work by sculptress Irene Krugman and Princeton photographers Nina Alexander and Herta Hilscher-Wittgenstein is featured in two exhibitions opening in the Main Galleries of the State Museum in Trenton on Saturday. Both exhibitions will continue through January 4.

The "Photographs by Nina Alexander and Herta Hilscher-Wittgenstein" exhibition provides an imaginative look at contemporary life, focusing primarily on people.

In describing her motivation, Ms. Alexander declares that "I am exploring with the camera...I say hello to possibilities...I get to know things by making pictures of them." Ms. Hilscher-Wittgenstein, motivated by more specific selection of subject material, notes that she is "drawn to the underprivileged...and to celebrities," the former "to provide them with a sense of dignity" and the latter "to take them off their pedestals."

The two photographers will conduct a "conversation" session at the Museum at 5 p.m. on November 9.

"Infinity Cartons," the Krugman exhibition, utilizes cardboard and mirrors to produce series of environmental modules that are reduced, repeated and, at times, fragmented and displayed sequentially. The artist, whose techniques of expression reflect long-time fascination with exhibits of functional, ritual and aesthetic objects, describes her infinity cartons as proposing "a sculptural idiom and-or continuum where looking back is looking forward ... into ... around ... and right on through."

The State Museum, a division of the N.J. Department of Education, is open without charge from 9 to 5 Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 on weekends.

PAINTINGS ON VIEW

At Jinglestone Gallery. An exhibit of the paintings of John Robertson are currently on view at the Jinglestone Gallery, Sergeantsville, until November 21.

Mr. Robertson was born in New Jersey and graduated from Fairleigh Dickinson University. He initially worked as a portrait artist, but has devoted the last two years to other subjects, including landscapes and city scenes which he renders almost exclusively in oils. His work runs the gamut from a Seurat-like quality to an almost photographic realism.

Mr. Robertson has exhibited in shows and galleries in New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The Jinglestone Gallery is located six miles south of Flemington on Route 523 at the blinker in Sergeantsville. Hours are Wednesday through Sunday, 12 to 5.

OFF TO BOROUGH HALL? Barbara Sigmund is already there, and hopes for a second three-year term. Her running mate on the Democratic ticket is Gus Escher.

OFF TO BOROUGH HALL? Republican Council candidates John Bleimeier and Richard Woodbridge take a rest stop on their campaign walk to Borough Hall.

names of Mr. Redding and his wife Theresa, were listed among "Democrats for Princeton."

"I'm not pushing the issue because I don't want to polarize the community," Mr. Bleimeier said, "but the Democrats should not have used Mr. and Mrs. Redding's names."

About Housing. Housing is a major concern of Mr. Escher's—he is with the state's Housing Finance Agency—and he talked this week about ways Princeton could get more housing.

"The '68 bond issue helped PCH with half a million," he pointed out, "and if the present bond issue passes, a similar project for the Borough could receive help. I'd prefer, myself, to see three 50-unit projects—Lloyd Terrace and Clay Street have 50 units—than one big 150-unit project. But state and Federal officials don't like fewer than 150 units because of the cost."

"If I'm elected," he continued, "I'd start machinery toward implementation of a new state law that provides a revolving fund—foundations could contribute, or a consotrium of banks and so on—which would provide very low interest loans to homeowners. I'd prefer, myself, to rely on private funding institutions, and the banks are receptive to this. It's one element in an overall housing plan: keep what housing you've got! Local housing authorities can't do the whole job."

Mr. Escher would also welcome "a more creative approach" to zoning so that land-owners wouldn't be able to zoom up the price of land, knowing it has been zoned for this use or that. "Zoning is like showing your hand," Mr. Escher said with a smile.

In the Republican questionnaire, "Housing" tied with "crime" for second place in voters' concerns. ("Taxes" is Number One.)

Mr. Woodbridge favors a PCH-style housing project, pointing out that housing is part of the overall tax problem.

"The elderly can afford neither taxes nor rent," he observed, "and new municipal programs often squeeze the elderly out."

"I'd like to explore condominium housing which lower-income people could buy as an investment," Mr. Bleimeier suggested. "Often a home is the only investment a lower-income family has. If they could find a way to make a down-payment of only $1,000 or $2,000—like buying a car—with a long-term mortgage, it would be very helpful. There may be Federal legislation that could support this."

All Borough Council candidates support the housing bond issue.

Parking for Housing? Mrs. Sigmund has expressed interest in the Borough-owned Chambers Street parking lot across from the Pickering Building as a PCH housing site.

Bicycles and buses are part of the campaign this year. As a strong supporter of both bike-paths and the Loop Bus, Mrs. Sigmund hopes if re-elected, to continue work on both.

"The big money has already been spent on these things," she commented, "I'd like more time to refine and improve both the paths—through curb-cuts and an educational program with the kids on safety—and the Loop bus. Already, we have better routes and regular drivers and more attractive buses, and the ridership is really climbing."

Parks have always been a strong Sigmund interest, and the candidate would like to continue along those paths, also.

"I want to consult with neighbors of parks and use that super-force of architecture students, the Princeton High shop and the intrepid Borough garage force, to do for other parks what we did for Harrison Street and John Street."

Federal Funds Needed. Mrs. Sigmund regards herself as "project-oriented," in contrast to Mr. Escher, whom she says is "planning-oriented." Buses, bike-paths and parks are, she smiles, "projects."

However, she also feels strongly that smaller municipalities, like Princeton, must band together to find ways for tapping Federal funds.

"It's ridiculous to have small towns competing with each other for Federal money," she said, "Often, small communities can't meet the formulas set up by the Federal government for aid. I don't think Congress meant it to be this way, but it is."

"If Princeton tries to do everything itself," she said, "up goes the property tax, and you throw out the very people you're trying to help. Princeton CANNOT spend really big bucks without hurting its citizens. Just suppose we threw running the dinky into the local tax rate!"

On the Republican side, Mr.

THE RIGHT MAN FOR A TOUGH JOB

Arthur R. Sypek, Sr. has spent most of his public life - 16 years - helping to give Mercer County the most progressive and respected county government in New Jersey

As the Democratic candidate for Mercer County Executive, Arthur Sypek wants to continue to provide good government for all of the people of this county

Arthur Sypek actively worked for change in the form of county government for almost 10 years to make the government even more responsive to the people it serves. In anticipation of this change, he implemented the reorganizaton of the existing county departments into more efficient groupings of agencies dealing with similar programs. He created the position of county administrator to serve as a link between the Freeholder Board and the various county departments. He appointed a county comptroller to provide professional supervision of all of the county's financial activities.

Arthur Sypek has a record of excellence, hard work, initiative and leadership in business and government. He is the man the citizens of Mercer County have come to rely on for solid progress in the areas of government that affect them most...education, transportation, social services, efficiency in government.

In these times, Arthur R. Sypek is the right man for a tough job

THE NEWSPAPERS SAY

"God bless Arthur Sypek. What he said at the reorganization meeting of the Mercer County Freeholders Monday underscores his decency, openmindedness and political and governmental integrity."
The Trentonian, January 5, 1972

"Director Arthur Sypek...has, on the whole, served county government conscientiously and well."
The Evening Times, Oct. 30, 1974

"Arthur Sypek, as director of the board, most probably knows more about county government than any elected official in the state, or certainly as much. And he has coupled that knowledge with a rare capacity for hard work."
The Trentonian, October 29, 1974

"Many municipal officials vehemently oppose the (financial) disclosure requirement, and Mercer County Freeholder Director Arthur Sypek is to be commended for going against the trend with an endorsement of the legislation."
The Evening Times, March 24, 1975

Woodbridge still has reservations about the Loop Bus, questioning its duplication of Crosstown '62, and advising one more year, "and then let's see."

"I'd rather put the same amount of money into capital improvements that will last, like the Youth Center or the library," he said, "Yes, t'd like to see the library expand. I think we should be examining programs critically, and the bike-paths come under this heading. I find that people who favor them, are mild in their support, but those who oppose them, feel strongly. There are lots of complaints that bike paths aren't used."

Both Mr. Bleimeier and Mr. Woodbridge have counted the unanimous Democratic membership of Council and found it deplorable. In a statement this week, Mr. Woodbridge criticizes his Democratic opponents for "monopolizing" Borough Council. He said later that he had asked to serve on the Zoning Board and was turned down in favor of a Democrat.

"Council shouldn't be political," Mr. Bleimeier declared, "That is the big thing. We should re-kindle community spirit, get more volunteer citizens interested in government. Since there are only Democrats on Council, Republicans and independents don't feel welcome. Perhaps Council could meet in various locations around town—like the Chestnut Street firehouse. This might encourage people to come out, and see how government works."

Mr. Bleimeier wants passage of a Federal bill which would allow senior citizens up to $800 tax credit, reflecting a percentage of property tax or rent. He also wants to develop a code of ethics for public officials, and would like to require all candidates to disclose their sources of income, "to let the people determine whether there is a conflict of interest."

CRAFT MARKETPLACE

Saturday, At YWCA. Weaving, spinning, quilting, embroidery and ceramic work are among the many skills to be demonstrated on Saturday from 10 to 4 at the YWCA on Avalon Place. The second Craft Women's Marketplace has drawn 85 artisans from the area.

Potting and weaving lead the list of entries, as well as rug braiding and hooking and tinsel and theorem painting. Jewelry, leaded glass, leather work, decoupage, bread dough flowers, tin ornaments and mobiles will be available for sale.

There will be Beverley Kidder's handcrafted character dolls, Jody Abrams' reproduction antique dolls, Harriet Eubanks' doll house miniatures and Mary Rizzi's tiny flower arrangements. Observers may learn the "how to" of origami by watching Yoko Drake and Jeanne Fisher; the making of gingerbread houses by Maralyn Jeppson; puppets by Rava Zee.

A silent auction will offer items of artistic value for bidding. Included are original cartoons by Henry Martin and John Huehnergarth, specifically the latter's design for a cover of Newsweek magazine last year depicting a couple caught in the dollar crunch. A dried flower arrangement has been contributed by Betty Flanders and a plant from Till Miller, the plant lady. A watercolor has been donated by Dagmar Tribble, Princeton Art Association teacher.

In addition there will be the Bates Boutique of articles handmade by friends of the YWCA; the Newcomers Club Bake Sale; and soup and sandwiches served all day.

Admission is 50 cents, and all proceeds benefit the Bates Scholarship Fund which provides assistance to women and girls unable to participate in YWCA programs.

TUESDAY TEAS RESUME

At Historical Society. The Princeton Historical Society has invited members and the public to stop by Bainbridge House for tea, homemade sandwiches and cakes each Tuesday afternoon between 2 and 4. The tea is planned so visitors to Princeton can tour Morven between 1 and 3, then come to the Historical Society for tea and see the current exhibition, which until mid-December will be a display of quilts.

Members come free—advantage of membership in the Society—and for the public the charge is 50 cents. Volunteers are needed to assist with the "Tea on Tuesdays." Call the Historical Society, 921-6748.

IT'S NEW To Us

KALEN'S EXPANDS

Across The Street. "We wanted an open effect, a gallery look," commented Saul Kalen on the opening of their newest store.

Located at the base of Palmer Square, this is actually the fourth Kalen's Fine Arts, and Princeton's second. Mr. Kalen said they expanded across the street because while the other store had a gallery downstairs, it was inaccessible to the public and "we almost had to entice people into it."

No enticing should be necessary for the new gallery. It is a lovely spacious room with grass papered walls and strip lighting for displaying the paintings which reflect a variety of styles and tastes.

There are impressionistic works by John Horwood, a British painter whose years in the country and at the seashore are reflected in his work. Although he is a contemporary artist, his subjects are of the late 19th century.

On the other hand, Bouvier de Cachard creates large, bold, abstract oils with a palette knife. Especially lovely is his "Mirage a Notre Dame," which depicts the cathedral in the midst of many abstract lines.

"We are fortunate to have Don Hornberger in our inventory," said Mr. Kalen. "There is no one around who paints like him, and at a popular price." Most exciting are the skies of this Pennsylvania landscape painted which almost have a translucent effect.

NEW GALLERY FOR KALEN'S: At Kalen's Fine Art's new gallery, oriental art is but one of the many styles displayed. In addition to the black and gold Coramandel screen, silk rug and vases shown here, there are original scrolls painted by Chinese and Japanese artists.

There are also works by Luis Salvador, a noted Spanish artist who was head of the art department at the University of Lisbon when Mr. Kalen first met him. In his work of the Spanish countryside he uses strong splashes of color to indicate the flowers and pink rooftops of the village.

On a smaller scale, there is a group of prints by John Leech, a British illustrator of the mid-nineteenth century. Many are of the hunt, and there is a touch of humor to them all. They come framed in antique birdseye maple frames which are very hard to find nowadays, $49.50.

One-of-a-Kind Items. There are also some one-of-a-kind items, such as a large oil of Louis XIV and his courtiers going out on a hunt. Painted by Adam Franz van der Meulen (1632-90) who was court painter at the time, this is a lovely work with great background detail of the Palace of Vincennes and people in the gardens.

In addition, Kalen's gallery is displaying oriental rugs and there is a particularly pretty Kierman one with nicely faded colors of cream, pink and blue, approximately 9 x 12.

There is also a bolder Lilihan oriental and a fascinating hand-hooked long runner with a giraffe pattern that obviously once belonged in a mansion.

Furniture is another aspect of this new gallery and we saw striped pine which is the newest look as well as some mahogany pieces. We particularly liked a large square stripped pine mirror with an arched fan design on the top and a small-scaled Queen Anne highboy in mahogany.

Filling out the gallery are many smaller antiques that Mr. Kalen finds in his travels. There are several wooden campaign chests, some brass Doric column candlesticks from 1856, hand-hammered pewter cream and sugars, and some intriguing inkwells of a horse's hoof set in sterling – one even has a commemorative inscription on the inside of the lid.

Both Kalen's Fine Arts on Palmer Square are open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 to 5.

NEW AT NORDICRAFT

Natural Wood Gifts. In the 4 years Nordicraft has been open, it has never lost its crisp and welcoming appearance. Still owned by three Scandinavian women who are understandably proud of their heritage, there is a constant supply of Norwegian knitting, Danish cross-stitch, and gifts from all the Scandinavian countries.

Representative of the natural look so often seen in this part of the world are the many household items of unfinished wood. There are square woven wood baskets perfect for snacks, letters or what have you; coat racks with anywhere from two to five hooks; and a woven wood planter complete with rope hangers that you assemble yourself, $3 and up.

For the table we liked a round carving board with a heavy rope handle so you can hang it on the wall when it's not being used, $19.50, and a double-edged knife (serrated and sharp) in its own wooden case, $15 – again both are of natural wood.

Anne-Marie Woodrow, one of the three owners, told us that juniper wood, with its spicy smell, is used a great deal in Finland. It makes a fragrant needle-carrying case or a handsome round wooden block when 30 to 40 of these narrow trunks are sealed together, $3.95 and $58.

While Mrs. Woodrow laughingly admits there aren't many saunas in Princeton, Nordicraft does have the necessary accessories such as a wooden head rest and soap dish. There is also a handsome wooden bucket and ladle for spooning out the water that you only need to look at once to think of several other uses, $24.50 for both.

After a sauna the Fins use long natural linen towels to dry off their skin. However, with woven stripes of soft yellow and green, these towels are so handsome that Mrs. Woodrow says, "We really bought them to sell as tablecloths," $22.

Brass, Pewter, Crystal. There are also brass, pewter and crystal gifts in addition to several individual items. For instance there are pressed flowers from Denmark that come as bookmarks or pictures, and because they are glued on parchment paper, they are perfect to mail for a small gift as nothing can happen to them. $2.50 and $7.50.

Most intriguing is a tan leather hunting bag that can double as a purse. Mrs. Woodrow says, "It turns a nice dark rich color when it's been sitting around a while," and if you lift the flap, you can see it has already begun to darken, $39. There is also a smaller bag and a deep tote with a front pocket.

Lastly, in the gift area are several beautifully illustrated books. There is "Great Swedish Fairy Tales," illustrated by John Bauer; "At Home," written by Lennart Rudstrom in 1899 and filled with the works of Carl Larsson, a famous Swedish painter; and "Peter's Adventures in Blueberry Land," a story for children written and illustrated by Elsa Beskow, $5.95 to $7.95. Several of these illustrations have also been used for notepaper and posters.

While the gifts change from time to time, you will always find a wide choice of Norwegian patterned sweaters. These can be made in wool or acrylic yarn, and are surprisingly easy as they are done almost totally with a knit stitch on a round needle. Although the wool is not inexpensive, it is warm and durable – the type of sweater an adult will have for a lifetime.

There is also Danish cross-stitch which involves working a pattern on a piece of linen by counting the threads. The choice of patterns is tremendous, but at this time of year it might be wise to begin a Christmas decoration or gift

Most enchanting is an advent calendar of six balloons, from which are hung tiny packages. The object is that each day until Christmas one of these tiny treasures is opened, $19.95 including the yarn. For presents, there are eyeglass cases, pretty squares to fit in a flat wooden basket, and a double strap of yellow stylized flowers with which to hang a tray, $2.50 to $8.50.

Tigers in Trouble: Four Key Ivy Games at Hand, But They Now Rank as Underdogs in Them All

THE MAN THEY COULDN'T STOP: Pennsylvania's All-Ivy back Jack Wixted crests Princeton line for second of three touchdowns he scored Saturday in Quakers' 24-20 triumph. (Bob Matthews Photo)

A fortnight ago, it appeared entirely possible that the Brown-Princeton game in Palmer Stadium on Saturday would not only go far to determine the winner of the Ivy League championship but would send two undefeated teams against each other--a match-up that almost never occurs with the season well past the half-way mark.

In their last two games, however, the best that either team could salvage was a tie, and last week both were beaten by opponents which had won just once in the nine games they had played. While Princeton was losing, 24-20, to a Penn team that had outscored only Lafayette, Brown was dropping a 21-20 decision to Holy Cross, which had lost its first five.

The upset at the hands of Pennsylvania places a tremendous burden of proof on the Tigers. Optimistic enough at the outset of the season to cast themselves as contenders for the Ivy crown, they are now confronted with the possibility that they may not equal last year's 4-4-1 mark. They have lost their last two while failing to show any semblance of week-to-week improvement, and their last four 1975 opponents are all likely to finish ahead of Penn in the final standings.

As in the Colgate game, defeat was traceable to two factors: a costly error on offense that gave the victors an easy touchdown, and a pass defense that was consistently overmatched when the outcome hung in the balance. A fumbled punt on the six-yard line set up Penn's first score--very much as the blocked kick a week earlier had allowed Colgate to leave the field at the half tied 7-7.

In the second half, Penn quarterback Bob Graustein, who had never started a game until his senior year, clearly outplayed the veteran Ron Beible, who was starting the 22nd game of his career. The Tiger defense was picked apart by the Quaker quarterback for 19 completions in 32 attempts (compared to 18 of 38 for Beible.) The 239 yards Penn gained in the air were very nearly triple Graustein's average coming into the game--an astonishing statistic for a Princeton team that had managed to go into the contest ranked fifth nationally in pass defense.

Another Gift Touchdown. As they did against Colgate, the Tigers scored first, gave up an unnecessary touchdown before the intermission and then lost the game in the second half. Their first score came on a 48-yard drive toward the end of the opening period, Beible passing for 12 to fullback Bob Reid to earn the TD. Penn got it back when Rich Monaghan fumbled a punt on the Princeton six, Penn recovering on the 13 and Jack Wixted going over two plays later for the first of his three touchdowns.

Still following the pattern of the previous week, the Tigers took a third-period lead which they proved unable to hold. A poor center snap caused a Penn fumble on the Quaker seven, Bobby Isom getting four and Reid going through the middle for the final three to make it 14-7 less than a minute after play had resumed.

It took Penn just a minute and 50 seconds to go 81 yards to make it 14-all and, after failing a scant yard out, the Quakers then took the lead for good less than a minute into the final quarter. The insurance points they needed came two minutes later on a 35-yard field goal by Tim Mazzetti.

Princeton moved down field, Scott Morrison missed on a 47-yard field goal attempt, but the Tigers regained possession and went 62 yards in six plays to narrow the gap to 24-20 on a 12-yard pass from Beible to wide receiver Glenn Robinson. The try for a two-point conversion missed when Beible was stopped short of the goal line, and the Tigers never got their hands on the ball again as Penn played fine possession football with 4:30 to go.

Here's an oddity...The University of Louisville and Drake University met in a football game Sept. 13, 1969, and going into that game, Louisville held the all-time NCAA record for playing the most consecutive games without a tie, 171, and by coincidence, Drake ranked second in that record, having played 169 straight games without a tie...What happened when they played each other that day?...You guessed it, they played a tie game!...Final score was 24-24.

Trouble Straight Ahead

When sophomore Doug Lang was carried from the field on a stretcher in Palmer Stadium Saturday, he became the second middle guard Princeton has lost for the season. He was taken to the Medical Center with a fractured ankle and underwent surgery that night.

Jay Williamson, a 235-lb senior, suffered a broken leg in the pre-season scrimmage against Morgan State. Lang came along to win the starting job off his play in the Rutgers game, and when linebacker Steve Lang recovered from a fracture of the tibia, the two (unrelated) gave Princeton a standout defensive pair.

Loss of Doug Lang and Williamson places a major burden on Jay Dawson, the only other middle guard with experience. He weighs only 190, has been slowed by a muscle pull and even in top shape, is too light tn play without relief. The opposition figures to test the Tigers' middle frequently.

Sports in Princeton

Quality Of Excellence Lacking. Princeton's problem, in brief, is that it is not executing any segment of the game very well. Its offensive line is not clearing out anyone, even at the line of scrimmage, and not one of five running backs used Saturday managed even once to run for a first down.

Beible had a particularly unimpressive day, with a great percentage of the 20 passes on which he missed his receiver being greatly overthrown. He was also charged with two costly interceptions, both of which were followed by Penn scores. Beyond that, his play selection was often contrary to logic: on third and 3, with possession in the fourth quarter vital to victory, he overshot Neil Chamberlin with a long pass when a yard and a half per carry would have done the trick.

Defensively, the pass coverage has been faulty time and again in the decisive second half against both Colgate and Penn, as both opposing quarterbacks pitched their teams to victory. Tackling, too, has lost some of the quality of consistency shown earlier in the season.

For the second week in a row, a high center snap has prevented Morrison from a chance to boot a field goal well within his distance. In the closing minute of the first half, the Tigers let the clock run down so that Morrison's shot would be the last play possible, but when Adams had to run with the ball, the first down he made was of no avail. Eventually, Penn won because it kicked a field goal when Princeton had matched its three touchdowns.

The Tigers' loss to the Quakers was their fourth in a row to this team. As much as anything else, the quality of the football being played here is reflected by the fact that Penn has at no time during that span represented the class of Ivy League football.

BROWN WILL BE TOUGH

Bruins Play Hard Football. The Tigers will have all kinds of problems trying to return to the victory column Saturday – Brown is not only firm in the belief that it can win its first Ivy title but has a reputation for playing extremely physical football.

In trouble at the outset of the 1974 season, the Bruins won their last four in a row, including 17-13 and 10-7 decisions from Princeton and Harvard. They took their first three this season (including a two-touchdown victory over Yale) before having to rally to tie Dartmouth and then falling victim last week to Holy Cross.

The arrival from Vermont of quarterback transfer Bob Bateman has given Brown the best all-around player at this position it has had in years, and there is sufficient overall ability to rank the team among the best in the league. Kevin Slattery and Bob McNamara share the ball carrying duties with Bateman, who uses his options extremely well. If the Tigers fail Saturday (for the third year in a row), only Harvard on November 15 will bar Brown's path to its first league championship.

FIRST OF TWO: Fullback Bob Reid crashes into Penn end zone with pass completion on 12-yard play, scoring first of two touchdowns he made Saturday. Tigers led, 7-0 and 14-7, before defeat that dropped their record to 3-2. (Bob Mallhews Photo)

QUICK LOOK AT BROWN

OFFENSE: Features running of Kevin Slattery and passing of 6-5 quarterback Bob Bateman. Has not lived up to potential in last two games but should do well against troubled Tigers

DEFENSE: Best in Ivy, limiting opponents to 10 points a game Superiority over Tigers here likely to decide game's outcome

CHIEF ASSET: Bateman, who transferred from Vermont when football was discontinued there Bruins have good overall strength which needed top quarterback to ignite

CHIEF PROBLEM: Living up to widespread pre-season forecasts that it would win Ivy title

TYPE OF ATTACK: Multiple 7

PHS Football Team Beats West Windsor, 26-14; Faces St. Anthony's Here Saturday Afternoon

The first meeting between Princeton High School and West Windsor contained a lot of fireworks, most of it by PHS, as the Little Tigers won, 26-14. The game, postponed from Saturday to help preserve the wet Mercer County Park field, was played Monday.

Princeton will play host to St. Anthony's next in a Saturday contest starting at 2. The Iron Mikes are fresh off a 21-13 upset of Steinert Friday night, their first win of the season.

St. Anthony's offense is built around its fine passing quarterback Mark Slafkovsky, who gained 175 yards in the air against Steinert. "They have a well-rounded team and a good quarterback," said PHS coach Jim Beachell. "It will be a tough one but if we can shut off their passing, the game is ours."

West Windsor will also be home again at Mercer Park, entertaining Green Brook in a 1:30 game. The visitors from the Dunellen area have not lost in five starts this season and West Windsor coach Rex Walker commented, "It will be a hard game for us."

The Pirates, following Monday's loss to PHS, are 3-2. PHS is also 3-2.

NOSE GUARD: Defensive play by John Hoover, 6-2, 190-pound senior nose guard, in the West Windsor game drew praise from PHS coach Jim Beachell.

99 Yards, 35 Inches. Tony Strong was the offensive leader for PHS against West Windsor, scoring twice on runs of seven yards for the game's opening score and giving PHS a 13-0 halftime lead when he scored from the one-inch line of West Windsor Beachell described it as a run of 99 yards, 35 inches.

Both teams scored twice in the second half. PHS quarterback Tommy Thomas threw a 35-yard strike to Dave Lacy and later connected with end Robbie McPherson for a 40-yarder, McPherson's first score of the season.

The home team got on the board when West Windsor's Dave Duncan returned a kickoff 98 yards in the third period. Quarterback Daryl MacPherson connected with Bill Schroeder with a seven-yard pass in the final period. Schroeder kicked both extra points.

"Our kids were still coming back at the end," said Walker. "Mistakes hurt us. We turned the ball over the first two times we had it. We held them once but the second time they scored."

Duncan also had a 99-yard return but this was nullified by two penalties for holding and clipping. "Some of our kids up the middle didn't do a job," observed Beachell.

Beachell, in fact, was not too happy with the way his team played. "We had over 150 yards in penalties. We were sloppy. The layoff didn't help us at all."

The sequence of plays that turned the game around came in the second period. West Windsor had driven to the PHS goal. "It appeared to us that Chris Holcombe had gone over," said Walker, but the referee placed the ball on the two-inch line. A penalty moved it to the one inch line.

The Pirates had four cracks at the TD, but as Walker was to report, "We bobbled a snap, we dropped one and they made a couple of good defensive plays."

As soon as the ball changed hands, Strong went the distance off tackle. "That play broke our back," said Walker. Instead of a possible tie, it's 13-0.

Holcombe had 50 yards rushing for West Windsor and MacPherson was 8 for 18 passing as the Pirates battled back from a 20-0 deficit. John Martin and Rich Holcombe recovered PHS fumbles and Dave Watson picked off a PHS pass.

150 Yards for Strong. For the Little Tigers, Strong had 150 yards rushing – 120 in the first half. Beachell also cited the defensive play of Dave Seagers, John Hoover and Craig Rendall, and the play both ways of Eric Ziolkowski. "He was running the ball like crazy and was the leading blocker on others."

For a few players, the game was an opportunity to renew old friendships. The West Windsor players attended Princeton High School as freshmen, the last year before the opening of the new West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. There were 11 from West Windsor on the PHS freshman team but Walker reported that he did not know how many of the original group were left.

"It was a well-played, hard-hitting game. There was a lot of sportmanship displayed by the players," commented Walker. It was a fine start for a new rivalry.

PDS DERAILED, 14-6

By Wardlaw. The Princeton Day School perfect season express was derailed last week by Wardlaw, 14-6, as the Panthers suffered their first loss in six games.

"We just didn't play very well," said PDS coach John Boneparth later. "We had poor execution, especially on defense. Everybody made mistakes—and we paid the price for it."

Quicker, it seems, than a Billy Martin touchdown burst off tackle, the season has come to an end for the Panthers. A team described by Boneparth as the best ever to represent PDS in its young history will play its final game of the season Friday afternoon against neighboring Hun School. Kickoff at the Hun field is 3 p.m.

For motivation, PDS is faced with a "must" win if it hopes to repeat as the NJSIAA Class B prep school champion for the second year in a row. For another, it has never defeated Hun on the gridiron.

"I have great respect for Hun. It will take a super effort and good execution on our part to win," Boneparth said. "We have a good chance," he continued, "to put it back together, to start playing again. We had a bad ball game; we have to see if we can bounce back. That's the challenge."

Poor Start for PDS. The Panthers never got going against Wardlaw, fumbling the ball away the first two times they got it. After the second fumble, the home team drove in for the game's first score, quarterback Dave Piano plunging over from the one.

As a consequence, Wardlaw ran off 26 consecutive plays, Boneparth observed, before PDS ran one complete play from scrimmage. "It threw our whole tempo off," he said.

Buried deep in its own territory, PDS drove 99 yards in two plays in the second period. Both were off tackle thrusts by Billy Martin, the first for 29 yards, the second for 70 and the TD. The half ended, 6-6.

The second half was back-and-forth, but with five minutes to go, Wardlaw's Jack Davis broke one off tackle for 45 yards and that brought the home team its fourth victory in five starts.

PDS had one more shot at coming back but was hurt by an intentional grounding call. "We had been executing well for the past couple of weeks but against Wardlaw, everything fell apart," said Boneparth. Martin had 153 yards rushing for the Panthers.

Despite the fine start, the success of the Panthers season all hangs on the outcome of their final game with Hun.

HUN TOP'S DELBARTON

Hosts Rival PDS Friday. A Hun football team which, according to Coach Dave Leete, "didn't make too many mistakes" in defeating Delbarton, 10-3 last week, will play host to once-defeated Princeton Day School this week.

Originally scheduled for Saturday, the game will be played Friday at Hun, starting at 3. Hun will enter the game with a 3-2 record while PDS is 5-1, having lost its first last week to Wardlaw, 14-6.

Leete sees PDS as a "lot stronger, definitely," than the Panther team Hun defeated last year, 27-0. "They're not very deep but they have a good team," said Leete. "I hope we can win; we won't hold anything back."

Although Hun plays a different type of competition than PDS, Leete predicted a good game-- a spirited one. "It's a good rivalry."

TD Pass by Brady. After Hun's Terry McEwen had apparently scored on a 55-yard gallop early in the game against Delbarton, only to have it nullified by a clip, Hun came right back with a 16-yard scoring pass from Nick Brady to Larry Gebert. A 20-yard aerial from Brady to Tim Teel was a big play in the drive.

Another pass, a 15-yarder from Brady to Teel, carried Hun to the Delbartyon eight in the first half. Hun was unable to take the ball in, however, and settled for a 20-yard field goal by fullback Ernie Barbiero. Kevin Connelly kicked a 21-yard field goal for all of Delbarton's points, as all the scoring was done in the first half.

The home team nearly scored again in the closing seconds. Delbarton blocked a Hun punt and recovered it on the five with 40 seconds left and no time outs. Delbarton (3-2) managed to run three plays but Hun repulsed the losers each time.

The whole team played well defensively, said Leete, who watched his team struggle on a wet and muddy field for the third week in a row. "It was a good team win."

He cited the defensive play of end Tom Sumners and linebacker Greg Papbers. Barbiero rushed 69 yards and McEwen 65 yards for Hun, each in 14 carries. The evenness of the two teams was reflected in the statistics: 131 yards rushing and 31 passing for Hun, 123 and 36 for Delharton.

FUEL OIL WINS, 12-6

To Remain Undefeated. In a battle between unbeatens last week, Princeton Fuel Oil scored on two big plays to defeat University Store, 12-6, in the third series of games in the senior division of the Princeton Midget Football League. Nassau-Conover blanked Furniture Mart, 9-0, in the second game.

Roger Dinella scored on a 58-yard pass from Mike Leahy in the second period and Peter Sharpless ran for 80 yards and the game-winning score in the third period. Fuel Oil enjoyed a 173 to 62-yard rushing advantage over the losers.

Mike Thompson, Ned Thompson, Mark Greenland and Paul Gellar led the Fuel Oil defense that shut out U-Store in the second half. Archie Jenkins, who had three of U-Store's five pass receptions, scored on a 15-yard pass in the seennd period.

Steve Budd was the offensive standout in Nassau-Conover's victory, scoring the game's only TD on a 27-yard run in the opening period after he had picked up a Furniture Mart fumble. He gained 93 yards in 13 carries. The victors added a safety in the second period on a fine defensive play by Wes Hill. Aiding in the Nassau-Conover defense were Frank Whittaker, Jacques Hoffman and Chip Zahner as the losers were held to four yards passing and minus six rushing.

Strong on defense for Furniture Mart were Mike McManus, Bob Dennehy, Dan Turgeon and Major Brown.

PRACTICE BEGINS

For Winter Sports Season. Princeton University's varsity basketball and hockey squads have started pre-season practice.

The Tiger basketball team, which posted a 22-8 record last season while winning the National Invitation Tournament, has several outstanding veterans and sophomore candidates reporting to Coach Pete Carril, who begins his ninth season.

Heading the list is the starting backcourt duo of Mickey Steuerer and Armond Hill, along with their top reserve, senior Pete Malloy.

Also returning are senior forward Barnes Hauptfuhrer, the team's leading scorer and rebounder, and junior center Lon Ramati, who took over as a starter in the last 10 games.

This season, the Tiger hockey team hopes to clear the final hurdle into the ECAC playoffs. With 16 returning lettermen, including six of their top seven scorers, it enters the campaign with more depth and experience than it has enjoyed for the past several seasons. The lettermen will receive a serious challenge for starting jobs from several outstanding sophomores and five promising freshman prospects, who are eligible for varsity competition under the new Ivy League rule.

SOCCER UNDER WAY

Many Teams in Action. Spirited competition and outstanding individual play were the main characteristics of the opening round of games in the Princeton Soccer Club.

A highlight was an extremely close match in the Senior Division which saw Princeton Savings and Loan edge New Jersey National Bank of Princeton, 3-2. Ian MacKenzie, Guido Terziotti and Scott Chace scored for the victors, while Chris Harford and Mike Greenstein had goals for NJNB.

A two goal effort by Jonathan Sparrow led Nassau Hobby to victory over Hulit's, 2-1, in the Intermediate League. Martin Gilbert scored for Hulit's.

In the other Intermediate contest, A & S Luncheonette topped Laidlaw-Coggeshall, 5-2. Both the Senior and Intermediate games were played at Princeton Day School, where these divisions will continue to meet throughout the season.

The two younger divisions, the Cubs and the Juniors, both staged their opening games at Valley Road School. Lavake Jewelers beat Varsity Sport Shop and Allen's defeated Zinder's in the Cub Division, and Tiger Auto overcame Hinkson's while The Gallup Poll and Princeton Pizza Palace struggled to a 3-3 tie in the Juniors.

TWO SHOWS SCHEDULED

For Equestrians. Princeton Riding Center will hold two horse shows Saturday.

At 9 a.m., members will assemble for their annual Fall Show. Classes will include Intermediate and Advanced Equitation for Juniors and Seniors, Open Dressage, and Intermediate and Advance Equitation Over Fences for Juniors and Seniors.

Mrs. Mary Bacon of Goshen, Mass. will judge both shows. Qualified as a Hunter judge and as a Dressage judge, she is a successful Event rider who has been a winner at the well-known Ledyard Event and received her training with Major John Lynch at Morven Park Equestrian Institute.

To conclude this part of the day, a "Miser Game" class has been scheduled in which contestants attempt to keep a dollar bill under their seats at the walk, trot and canter. As soon as the dollar bill slips out, the rider is eliminated. The winner collects all the dollars.

At 1, the Open Indoor Schooling Show will begin with "Halloween on Horseback." Both the horse and rider must be costumed and everyone is encouraged to be as imaginative as possible. This is an annual event at PRC and in the past there have been a variety of contestants, including a "Lady Godiva" and a "Headless Horseman".

The show itself will feature, "Maiden and Novice Hunter Under Saddle" and "Maiden and Hunter Over Fences," "Pleasure Horse or Pony," "Bridle Path Hack" and "For Sale" classes. Trophies will be given in the Pleasure, Maiden and Novice divisions.

There is no spectator admission. Princeton Riding Center is located on Cherry Hill Road. Call 466-1383 for further information and directions.

CONNORS, JESSER FIRST

In Carnegie Races. In races staged Sunday by the Carnegie Sailing Club on Carnegie Lake, Bill Connors finished first among Laser skippers, followed by Art Gossard and Doug Boone. For Sunfish, Dick Jesser was first, Nancy Champman second and Bob Champman, third.

The day before, 22 Laser sailers from New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey competed in the annual Carnegie Sailing Club Touchdown Regatta.

After three closely-contested races, Tad Brick of Island Heights finished in first place. Dan Crabbe of Toms River was second and Charles Harter of Philadelphia, third.

Sailing out of Bay Head was former Carnegie Club member Tad LaFountaine. He and Doug Boone of the host club did well in uncommonly light winds in the first race but did not fare as well in the next two. LaFountaine finished fourth for the day.
